Hayward Opens Fight In Legislature For West Coast Highway

Victoria Member Demands Project Be Completed as Vital to Prosperity of Victoria; Will Open Up Big Hinterland, He Says; New Courthouse Here Also Advocated; Urges Investigation of Public Works Department

Victoria's fight for the construction of the West Coast Road against interests which are opposing it was opened in the Legislature yesterday by Reginald Hayward, senior member for the city. In unequivocal terms Mr. Hayward came out for the continuation of the highway project as vital to the prosperity of Victoria and surrounding districts.

Mr. Hayward will be followed to-day by J. H. Beatty, another Victoria member, who is expected to support this demand for action by the present Government to open up the West Coast hinterland. Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe and H. D. Twigg, the other Victoria members, also are expected to support this programme.

"I hope the Government will see its way clear to continue the West Coast Road, or the Ocean Highway as it is called," Mr. Hayward declared. "The West Coast of Vancouver Island is the hinterland to Victoria and the key to the future prosperity of the city."

He read to the house a resolution passed by the Associated Boys' Trade of Vancouver Island in 1925 and submitted to the late Premier Oliver in which the construction of a road from Jordan River to Alberni was strongly advocated.

"The construction of the highway," he said, "is vitally necessary to the future life of this city."

NEW COURTHOUSE

Mr. Hayward also advocated the construction of a new courthouse in Victoria. He described the present premises as out of date, musty and objectionable in every way. The building is a fire trap, he declared, and if it burned invaluable documents would be destroyed.

London, Feb. 1.—Both General Bramwell Booth and the High Council of the Salvation Army to-day made definite moves in their controversy over the leadership of the army.

The High Council held a brief meeting this morning at which it was decided to take a decision on the question of the general on the question of his adjudication by that body as being unfit to continue in his high office. This action was taken to counter the recent decision of the Chancery Court here that a mistake had been made by the Council in deciding without hearing Gen. Booth's chosen representatives.

The general will be officially informed in due course of the Council's decision to give him or his delegate a hearing.

After that decision had been reached the council adjourned, to meet again at a date to be selected shortly. At the next meeting it is probable the adjudication proceedings will be taken up again, this time with the general's representative present.

By instruction of the general, a special supplement was issued with the War Cry to-day containing a reprint of the report of The London Times on the court proceedings and letter written and dated at Southwold on January 14, in which a conciliatory move by the general is revealed.

This letter was written after a visit by the special deputation of the High Council which requested him to retire from office. In the letter the general deprecated the desire of the High Council that he "relinquish his sacred trust," but he refused his assent, offering to compromise on the question at a successor.

UNITY IS HIS DESIRE
"I am deeply concerned for the unity of the Army," he wrote, and "to help preserve this as well as to secure consideration of this question apart from the pressure of time and personality, I will avail myself of the alternative provided for in our foundation deed of 1878. Should I die or otherwise vacate my office before such a time as a commission appointed to consider this question has arrived at a conclusion acceptable to me and to the necessary number of commissioners, I will leave the final choice of my immediate successor to the commissioners of the Salvation Army."

Persistent reports that General Booth would make a dramatic appearance in London to meet the Council, I will leave his case before it seemed to-day to lack substantiation. It was said a jury from Southwold, where he is keeping to his sick bed, was quite out of the question. It is expected William Jowett will represent him on all occasions, even those when his health may permit him acting for himself.

One of Many Police Line-ups In Chicago

Police headquarters in Chicago have witnessed numerous scenes like that pictured above since the greatest general round-up of suspects in the Windy City's history was started two weeks ago to-morrow. With 3,000 taken in the first two nights' and days' raids, the total mounted till it was brought above 3,500 this week. Detectives and persons who had reported robberies and other crimes looked over the men in batches at police headquarters, and while many were released, hundreds were booked on various charges. The courts will be busy for some time to come.

OPPOSITION PROTESTS NEW RULING AGAINST POLL INQUIRY MOTION

Members of the Opposition are planning vigorous protest against the action of Mr. Speaker Jones in holding up, as out of order, A. M. Manson's resolution asking for an investigation into the right of Capt. James Fitzsimmons, of Kaslo-Slocan, and J. R. Mitchell, of Kamloops, to sit in the Legislature.

Mr. Manson's resolution was filed Wednesday night, but has not been allowed on the order paper yet. Members of the Opposition understand Mr. Speaker considers it out of order, but they believe this view to be wrong and have made representations to this effect to him. They will carry their fight into the House itself during the next few days with detailed authorities to prove that they have a right to ask for the proposed inquiry.

Foch Gaining After Relapse

Paris, Feb. 1.—Physicians attending Marshal Ferdinand Foch this morning announced that his condition, after the slight relapse yesterday, was quite satisfactory.

Dr. Heitz-Boyer said the Marshal had merely had a touch of grip and that his lungs had not been affected.

"In fact," he added, "when the Marshal recovers from this illness, his health will be better than it has been for a year."

Dr. Heitz-Boyer said the Marshal had merely had a touch of grip and that his lungs had not been affected.

Both Dr. Heitz-Boyer and Dr. Daveniere seemed annoyed this morning that their bulletin yesterday indicating a slight relapse in the Marshal's condition had been taken so seriously by the public.

STUDENTS' PAPER MAY BE ENDED

Toronto University Governors Annoyed at Conduct of the "Varsity"

Toronto, Feb. 1.—A serious difference of opinion between the board of governors of the University of Toronto and the students' administrative council over the editorial policy of the student daily newspaper, "Varsity," may result in a peremptory order from the board of Governors to cease publication.

The Toronto Evening Telegram says to-day: "The trouble is said to have been precipitated by the refusal of the student organization to dismise the editor of the paper when so requested by the board of governors."

"While the members of the governing board have as yet issued no statement, strong exception is said to have been taken to a recent editorial under the caption, 'Fettering,' in which it was stated the practice was by no means peculiar to the present generation, nor was it an altogether unnatural or particularly harmful pastime. The editorial later was followed by several articles and interviews on the subject."

Jubilee Hospital Board Decides on Location For New Nurses' Wing
City Grant of $100,000 Will Apply Towards New Building Programme

Tenders for the erection of the new nurses' wing at the Royal Jubilee Hospital and incidental alterations to the old wing will be called by the hospital directors in two weeks' time, it was stated by H. H. Shandley, a member of the board, to-day. The work is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000, including renovations to the old wing, it has been stated.

The site for the nurses' home, at first suggested as near the westerly entrance to the hospital grounds on the Mount Tolmie carline, has been changed, stated Mr. Shandley. To make room for possible future expansion of both the main hospital building and the new nurses' home, the new home will be placed in the cricket ground, nearer to the Port Street gate. C. K. Wood Watkins is preparing the plans for the new wing.

The sum of $100,000 towards the cost of the new nurses' home and incidental alterations will be provided by the City of Victoria, following ratification of the by-law submitted to the electorate at the December polls. The alterations include remodeling in the old wing with provision for additional patient accommodation for sixty-five patients.

Old Prospector Of B.C. Dies in Want

Vancouver, Feb. 1.—Alexander Stonehouse, old-time prospector, who had fallen upon evil times in the closing years of his life, died in want, it was learned to-day. He was found in a vacant mill office on Georgia Street West Tuesday afternoon. The body was identified as that of Alexander Stonehouse by Charles Over, another old-timer.

Stonehouse, who had pioneered and tried his luck in British Columbia mining camps for more than forty years, had been in reduced circumstances during the last few years. Over said, for some time he had been existing almost solely on gratuities from former friends.

Canada's Trade Gain in 1928 11.6 Per Cent. Increase Over 1927 Greater Than Country's Total Trade Thirty Years Ago

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—Canada's position among the leading commercial nations of the world in international trade continues to rank very high. Worldwide statistics are not yet available for the calendar year 1928, but during the year 1927 Canada occupied fifth position in import and export trade, second in exports and total trade per capita, third in favorable trade balance and first position in favorable trade balance per capita. Inasmuch as Canada's total trade for 1928 shows an increase of $270,548,000, imports $135,200,000 and exports $135,348,000, the position of the country in international trade in 1928 was well maintained.

During 1928 Canada's trade totaled $2,596,448,000, compared with a total trade of $2,325,900,000 in 1927, the increase being $270,548,000, or 11.6 per cent. That increase was greater than Canada's total trade thirty years ago. On two occasions, however, Canada's total trade was greater than in 1928, namely in 1917, $2,639,726,000, and in 1920, $2,598,568,000. Imports in 1928, amounting to $1,222,318,000, were greater than during any previous calendar year except 1920, $1,236,921,000, while Canada's domestic exports, amounting to $1,349,751,000, were greater than for any previous calendar year except 1917, $1,547,341,000.

WHEAT EXPORTS
The outstanding feature of Canada's trade in 1928 was the enormous increase in the wheat exports. During the year the wheat exports totaled 365,428,561 bushels, valued at $433,767,978, the largest twelve-month period on record. The increase in 1928 over the previous largest wheat export year was 21,270,000 bushels, valued at $132,110,994.

RADIO IS SUCCESSFULLY USED TO TEACH DEAF MUTE CHILDREN

Canton, Ohio, Feb. 1.—An invention embodying the principle of radio broadcasting and reception brought joy to the hearts of twenty deaf mutes at the Henry S. Martin School here yesterday when for the first time in their lives they heard the sound of their own voices and their teachers as well.

The device was installed in a schoolroom, the equipment including a broadcasting unit and earphones on each student's desk. Traveling through the air, the sound impulses of the voice reach the wires and the device enables the pupil to hear both his own voice and that of the teacher.

Until yesterday the youngsters had been unable to pronounce even the simplest of words. For the first half-hour after the device had been installed they practiced talking. At first the sounds they made were unintelligible, but little by little their enunciation became clearer and all of them soon were able to make themselves understood, and to understand the teachers.

The set requires a minimum of electrical power to operate. It is expected to bring great changes in the teaching of the deaf.

The House Comes to Life Again—Mr. Bruhn Makes a Ministerial Utterance—Mr. Hayward Says Hard Things—The Storms Gather Around Capt. Fitzsimmons and Mr. Michell—And Mr. Pooley Is Annoyed

The House came suddenly to life yesterday, after droning through two uneventful sittings, and it hardly knew itself. There was none of the fire-eating of the first few days of the session, but everyone seemed to have something to say and the programme included such varying items as the first ministerial utterance of the year; the reappearance of the old campaign fund bogey; some shocking statements about the public works department; one of Mr. Hinchliffe's inimitable explanations; the first round of a fight over the right of two members to be members at all, and a last-minute tussle over the liberties of the press, the privileges of parliament and other vital issues of pure principle. In the course of these things the House began to come to grips at last with some of the business of the session, and the ground on which future battles will be waged was pretty clearly marked out.

It is always refreshing in the days of much talking to hear from Rolf Bruhn of Salmon Arm, who started the afternoon. It is Hon. R. W. Bruhn, President of the Council, now, but no one ever thinks of calling him anything but Rolf. This tall, calm, level-headed man from the woods of the Interior has become one of the ablest speakers in the House, an extraordinary thing, when you come to think of it, for English is not his mother tongue. A Scandinavian by birth, he has mastered a foreign speech so completely that there is only a faint trace of accent left. Probably he had to work hard to gain his present fluency and as a result he builds up his sentences word by word in crisp style, far more effectively than most members who have talked nothing but English all their lives and sometimes take liberties with it.

Mr. Bruhn's speech yesterday, as usual, was clear and to the point, with no nonsense about it and no frills, but his words and ideas flowed into one another with a smoothness which older parliamentarians may envy. The House listened to Rolf Bruhn as it always does, for outside of the Premier himself probably no member of the Government commands the same measure of popularity or such a reputation for commonsense.

Mr. Hayward of Victoria, who usually has skirted warily around such troubled waters, plunged immediately into the alleged shortcomings of the Public Works Department, which he did not hesitate to call scandalous, disgraceful and other things, this relating, of course, to the ungodly days before the deliverance of the country last July. Mr. Hayward also brought up again the dear old campaign funds which used to give the House bad dreams at night. He even recalled the laudable campaign fund utterances of General Odium, and the other members remembered with a shudder or a smile, according to their natures, how the Odium Campaign Fund Committee used to meet in secret day after day to find out all about their own business and this led to a Royal Commission; and how the Royal Commission led to nothing whatever. After that historic flap no one is much interested in campaign funds any more—that is, as an abstract subject of pious oratory.

The debate on the Speech from the Throne got no further than Mr. Hayward and the intermission gave Mr. Hinchliffe, with all the innocent pride of a schoolboy, a chance to introduce to the House his new legislative child. This was a rare thrill for Mr. Hinchliffe, but not so much of a thrill for the House, his new School Act, while important, not being calculated to excite anyone. Only those who watched Mr. Hinchliffe toil patiently in Opposition for eight years to rebuild the education system and to see all his ideas rejected, scorned or ruled out of order, can understand the satisfaction he must have felt as he brought down his new legislation, backed this time by a safe majority and assured of adoption.

How Mr. Hinchliffe enjoyed parading every clause, explaining every paragraph, lingering on each common, revealing in every figure and luxuriating in a mass of details which he alone among all the forty-eight members could ever have mastered or mastered. No one begrudged him the ample time he took to enjoy it and it was downright brutal of Mr. Ian Mackenzie, when it was all its taxation proposals with the blunt remark: "Well, there we have new tax levy number one."

The School Act shelved for the day, but for the day he offered a play of food for argument later, the House started to polish off the Constitution Act amendment by which by-elections for newly-appointed Cabinet Ministers will be abolished. It suddenly developed that everyone is interested in ministerial by-elections, possibly with the idea that they may have a personal application some day. The back benches already had their eyes on the desks at the top of the row and most of them are inclined to think by-elections an unnecessary expense. The Opposition, however, is out to spike the idea and insist on the most stringent safeguard. The new bill, therefore, was not polished off but adjourned—not, however, before Mr. Pattullo had told him Mr. Pooley was going to London as Agent-General, without a by-election, and Mr. Shelley was going out, but not to London.

The storms began to gather then around Capt. Fitzsimmons, of Kaslo, and J. P. Michell, of Kamloops, two elderly gentlemen who perhaps have less desire than anyone to upset the country or give the House a moment's worry. They began to gather in the first place when the Government pressed ahead its bill to legalize Capt. Fitzsimmons' election, about which there is some doubt on technical grounds.

Mr. Manson expressed the universal feeling when he said the Opposition regarded Capt. Fitzsimmons as a fine citizen in every other way worthy to sit in the House so far as he was concerned personally; but when political duty is to be done, to be done, taking one consideration with another, the life of an Opposition is not a happy one, for it must face such questions, said Mr. Manson, on grounds of principle and without regard to personal feelings, which even Oppositions sometimes harbor under hard exterior.

So evidently the Opposition is going to oppose the validation of the weather-beaten old mariner of the Arrow Lakes and his ferry boat, which is the cause of all the trouble.

The same thing bobbed up again in more aggravated form later when Mr.

Pooley rose to inform the House that the afternoon newspapers had published a resolution prepared by Mr. Manson and asking for an investigation into the right of Capt. Fitzsimmons and Mr. Michell to sit in the House at all. This resolution had not been accepted by Mr. Speaker as being in order, said Mr. Pooley, and it was a grave breach of the privilege of the House to print it.

This produced a juxtaposition which made old-timers smile; for when Mr. Pooley led the Opposition the ungodly Conservatives were always trying to get their ideas over to the public in order or not, and it was Mr. Manson's Government which raised hands of horror then. Now Mr. Pooley was pleading for the privileges of Parliament and Mr. Manson protesting that there was no harm in it, no possible harm whatever.

Mr. Hinchliffe was frank enough to admit that when he was in Opposition he got a resolution over to the public by standing up brazenly and reading aloud before anyone could say it was out of order. This resolution had been suppressed, of course, but as Mr. Hinchliffe remarked slyly, by that time it had reached the public. Mr. Ian Mackenzie closed the incident with a flourish by shouting that though the Government could muzzle the Opposition by sheer force of numbers it could not muzzle the press of the country. And Mr. Speaker having deprecated Mr. Manson's action as a permanent practice, the House adjourned for dinner, its appetite strangely unspiced by this affront to its dignities.

NEW TAXES FOR ISLAND SCHOOLS HINCHLIFFE PLAN

Bill Increases Contribution to Treasury From E. & N. Belt

Cancels Exemption From Payment of Teachers' Salaries

New taxation proposals were placed before the House yesterday when Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Public Schools Act, which, among other things, sweeps aside the exemption from contributing to teachers' salaries for rural school districts in the E. and N. Railway belt. The salaries reach in the neighborhood of $100,000 yearly.

The proposal to increase the taxes of the people in this belt brought a request from T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition, to know if the people in the E. and N. belt had been consulted.

"It is not the custom to consult the people on taxes about to be levied upon them," commented Mr. Hinchliffe.

"It was the custom of the last Government to do so," replied Mr. Pattullo. Mr. Hinchliffe remarked the district affected would have lots of notice as the tax would not go into effect immediately.

"It is tax number one, anyhow," interjected Ian Mackenzie.

The Minister of Education explained in detail the bill outlined yesterday and asked the House to support his proposed amendments. It was aimed to spread the burden of the cost of education and to include those not contributing at present who should be asked to contribute.

The amendment to provide more stringent regulations upon rural school districts for pupils up to sixteen years of age in rural districts came as a result of a recommendation of teachers of British Columbia, he said. These drew the question from Mr. Pattullo as to whether the people who were to be taxed had been consulted.

An amendment regarding High School pupils called for the school boards where a high school is located to charge $5 per month to the school district from which an outside pupil came instead of charging it to the pupil or parents of the pupil. "The obligation ceases if a boy is loafing on the job. If a boy is going as so many go to have two good years the obligation should cease," Mr. Hinchliffe said.

Referring to the survey again he said that objection might be expected from the E. and N. belt. The taxable real property of the people using the schools was $12,750,000, but the salaries of the teachers had been paid for so long and they had received contributions towards school buildings for so long that they felt they had vested rights and would fight for what they considered their privileges. They could maintain these privileges only at the expense of those outside the belt.

Tuitions of qualifications for electors and voters in assisted school districts might be expected from the only election in which an alien embracing Hindus, Japanese and Chinese could vote. A clause which permitted a husband and wife to both sit as electors was also amended. Where there were three trustees a husband and wife both sitting could control the district, he said.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT IS UNDER ATTACK

Hayward Calls Conduct of Former Government Scandalous; Quotes Contracts

"Rotten" handling of tenders, mutilation of documents, and the "positively disgraceful" affairs of the Department of Public Works under the former Liberal Government were described in detail by Reginald Hayward, Conservative of Victoria, when he voiced a determined demand in the Legislature yesterday for a complete investigation of these matters by a committee of the House or otherwise before adjournment.

Mr. Hayward complained in the first place of the "enormous over expenditures and commitments" of the former Government under the Public Works Department and to "the rotten system in vogue in connection with the opening of public tenders by the minister and his deputy in private behind closed doors, which alone was sufficient to cause suspicion and distrust in the minds of the public."

He added that he had referred to these things during the last election campaign, and none of his statements was ever denied.

AFFAIRS DISGRACEFUL
Evidence taken before the public accounts committee last year, he went on, showed that "tenders had been tampered with and even mutilated in the Public Works Department" and "affairs in that department had come to be positively disgraceful."

"I say," he added, "there ought even yet to be an investigation into the question of the opening of the tenders. Neither the then minister nor his chief adviser can refuse responsibility for these conditions. The minister was responsible for conditions in his department, and if he was not personally cognizant at the time of the tampering with and mutilation of tenders, then his chief adviser, his deputy was, and the two must stand the blame."

Mr. Hayward described what he called the "De Paola" University contract case which "has a very unsavory flavor and which I hope will be sifted to the bottom before the session is through."

A man named De Paola, he said, had a contract for roadways in the University area at Point Grey some years ago. "When the contract was about one-third completed," he recalled, "it was taken out of his hands and completed by the Department. The Government engineer on the job reported the final cost as $42,279.53, but the Liberal Minister in the year 1924 De Paola was relieved of his contract. A provincial election was held on June 20 of that year and although relieved of his contract, it was only eight days later, in the year 1924 De Paola was paid $3,750 as extra and in September, after the election, the Minister paid this De Paola a further sum of $7,354. I have said De Paola was paid this $7,354 but he actually got 12¢. I doubt it, sir, and here is where the old bugbear of campaign funds looms up again."

"We all possibly remember an address given by General Odium at a meeting of the East Point Grey Liberal Association on campaign funds, their use and abuse, in which he is reported to have said, 'We know by experience that so much money for the rank and file is a failure. They will not respond.'"

"Perhaps we could trace the source of some of the Liberal campaign funds if we were able to follow De Paola's $7,354 cheque to its destiny. We do know this much, and so far there has been no denial, and that is that instructions were given by the Deputy Minister of Public Works to Mr. Hood, chief clerk and accountant, to mail this cheque to Mr. Brent Brown, of Rogers Building, Vancouver, who at that time was either president of the Vancouver Liberal Association or the Provincial Liberal Association. Mr. Hood refused to send this cheque to Mr. Brown so no doubt the deputy mailed it himself or instructed some under official to do so, but we do know he asked the chief clerk to send it."

"If this example is a link in a chain between Liberal Government contracts in the past and Liberal campaign funds, then I say things have sunk to a low state when a party attempts to bribe the electorate with its own money. I hope the new Minister will institute some inquiry and a searching inquiry into the past doings of this department as I do not feel that the present audit is going to uncover scandals of this kind."

Mr. Hayward also complained that his questions on public works had not been correctly answered by the former Minister of Public Works. Answers had been given "intentionally given, I believe to mislead the Opposition of the day and the public."

He urged a new investigation into University building expenditures.

HOOD CASE
The blame for erroneous answers to questions had been laid by the former Government on Alfred Hood, chief clerk, who was made the goat and dismissed. But Mr. Hood could not be held responsible for erroneous answers given after his dismissal. The late minister or his chief adviser must accept responsibility, he said.

Mr. Hayward recommended the destruction of all provincial vouches and lists as being hopelessly confused and suggested compulsory registration of voters under the Australian system. He advocated an extension of rural nursing and the construction of a psychopathic hospital for the treatment of "borderline" cases of insanity.

"I am prepared to support certain sacrifices along other lines in favor of caring for our sick and less fortunate fellow creatures," he said.

Man Buried By Mountain Slide

C. Woodrow of Nelson Loses Life While Driving Through Snow With Tractor

Nelson, Feb. 1.—The Kootenay hills through which he so liked to roam, either prospecting or hunting big game, claimed Charles Woodrow, pioneer Kootenay mining man, yesterday afternoon. He was caught in a slide which swept the Reno mine road near Balmo about a quarter of a mile from the property at 4:40 p.m. Despite several hours' efforts by a mine crew, no trace of the body was found. Digging was resumed at dawn today.

Woodrow and three companions, William Hamilton, Alexander Starey and Mike Stromac, were attempting to get through deep snow to the mine with a caterpillar tractor. They struck an exceptionally large drift and were stalled. Woodrow went ahead of the tractor to estimate the depth of snow and how long it would take to remove it. At that moment a slide started from Reno Mountain above.

UNABLE TO ESCAPE
The small slide started a dry slide some 275 feet in width. It struck the snow men, but Woodrow was caught in the middle of the slide. The three other men rode in out and landed on their feet unhurt. They ascended the slide to find Woodrow, but he had been buried. At once they went for aid. A crew started digging at 4:30 o'clock and continued until after 7 o'clock, using lanterns, but with no success, and the work was discontinued till this morning.

Victoria Company Urges Lower Duty On Galvanized Wire

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—At the session of the Tariff Advisory Board here yesterday the Durable Mat Company Limited of Victoria, B.C., asked for a reduction in the duty on drawn galvanized wire, which was not made in Canada. This was opposed by the Steel Company of Canada. Mr. Moore, chairman of the board, suggested that what was really required was more detail as to the amount of this product consumed by what he termed an infant industry. R. J. Deachman of the Consumers' League of Canada supported the application of the Victoria company.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—The retirement of Lawrence A. Wilson as member of the House of Commons for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Que., was definitely announced in a letter he addressed to the electors of his district, which became known to the public yesterday. Mr. Wilson said his resignation had been forwarded to Ottawa on Friday of last week.

LIVELY DEBATE ON PROHIBITION

U.S. House Opposes Senate's Plan to Add $24,000,000 to Enforcement Fund

Washington, Feb. 1 (By Francis G. Aldham, Staff Writer of the Canadian Press).—Prohibition was the cause of a riot in the House of Representatives yesterday.

When the deficiency bill to authorize the expenditure of supplementary estimates came up, the amendment inserted by the Senate to increase the prohibition enforcement fund by $24,000,000 precipitated a debate which ended in bedlam. Democrats shouted scornfully that the Republicans were not really trying to enforce prohibition. Republicans shouted back that the Democrats were playing politics and trying to get back into the good graces of the electorate. Derisive laughter greeted references to prohibition organizations. In the galleries leaders of prohibition organizations heard themselves denounced.

ATTITUDE OF COOLIDGE
At last the appropriation bill was passed over to representatives of the House who will tell representatives of the Senate that the lower House will not accept the upper House's amendment. The lower House has the advantage in that it is pretty generally known that President Coolidge will veto the bill if the Senate amendment is left in. The situation has few parallels in congressional history.

COMMISSIONER'S OPINION
In the main estimates an appropriation of about $14,000,000 was made for the expenses of enforcing prohibition in the next fiscal year. At committee hearings, Dr. George Doran, commissioner of prohibition, had declared it probably would take $300,000,000 to enforce prohibition adequately. Later Senator Bruce got through an amendment in the Senate voting an extra $27,000,000 for prohibition enforcement next year. Before the bill passed third reading the amendment was taken out, but a substitute amendment representing the appropriation by $24,000,000.

UNUSUAL COURSE
Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, the Cabinet member in charge of prohibition, described the increased appropriation as ridiculous. For the first time in the history of Washington politics, he, a Cabinet member, refused to take a larger appropriation of money for the work of his department. Secretary Mellon pointed out that the machinery of prohibition enforcement could only be built by degrees.

Mr. Mellon saw in the amendment a plot to discredit the prohibition department by loading it down with money and denouncing it for inefficiency a year from now.

ORDER KEPT ON INDIA FRONTIER

New Delhi, India, Feb. 1.—The attitude of the Government of India toward the disturbances in Afghanistan was fully set forth in a statement in the Legislative Assembly yesterday by Sir Denys de S. Bray, Foreign Secretary. His assurances that the Indian frontier garrisons remained undisturbed, and the tribes on the Indian side of the border remained largely unaffected were greeted with applause, though he said the tribesmen were being canvassed by representatives of the three warring Afghan factions, and the situation on the frontier would have to be watched carefully.

"The only interruption to ordinary military routine has been the diversion of Royal Air Force machines from their ordinary duties to the humane task of bringing women and children to safety from Kabul," said Sir Denys, adding: "The energies of our frontier officers are being taxed to keep the tribes from headstrong action."

WESTERN DEBATORS WIN

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Debaters from Western Canadian universities met debaters from the University of Toronto last night and successfully upheld the affirmative of the question "That official censorship of literature, art and drama is undesirable and should be dispensed with at once in the interests of truth, morality and liberty." By a vote of forty-two to thirty, the audience upheld the visitors. The Western debaters were Nelson Chappell, University of Alberta; Bryce Mackenzie, University of Saskatchewan; and W. J. Macdonald, University of British Columbia.

Schools Take Half Taxes Of Nanaimo

Government to Receive Civic Petition For Relief

Nanaimo, Feb. 1.—Pointing out that one-half the tax levy of Nanaimo is consumed by schools expenditures, the Nanaimo City Council has forwarded the following resolution to George S. Pearson, M.P., for presentation to the Provincial Government:

"This council petitions the Provincial Government to seriously consider and enact such legislation as will afford the municipalities of British Columbia some adequate relief from the heavy burden of school taxes, which in the case of Nanaimo is fifty per cent of the total levy."

The resolution was brought before the council by Alderman Ironside. The council will this year have no money for distribution to charitable organizations not of local character. A long array of applications for grants were before the council and Alderman Ironside warned out-of-town groups that little aid would be forthcoming.

The by-law compelling hardware stores to close at 6 o'clock will be rescinded by the council if more than half the firms concerned apply by petition for cancellation of the measure. A petition against the early closing measure was filed last year, but no action was taken.

Mayor Bushby, aldermen and civic employees will attend divine service on Sunday at St. Paul's Church. An invitation from Rev. H. V. Hitchcock was accepted on motion of Alderman Ironside and Renny.

SKELP TESTS IN CANADA WATCHED

At Tariff Board Hearing Chairman Voices Hope Experiments Will Succeed

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—When experiments show that Canadian skelp or other primary manufacturing materials from steel plants are equal to the foreign products, protection probably will be the Government's wish for the infant industry, according to a statement made by W. H. Moore, chairman of the Tariff Advisory Board at yesterday's session of the steel and iron hearing here. Such a move would enable Canadian factories to supply Canadian demand.

Unquestionably, said Mr. Moore, a tariff on skelp would assist the Canadian manufacturers. He hoped the tests of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company would be successful.

P. B. McKelown, representing the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, suggested the experiments and investigation by manufacturers would be more encouraged by an automatic duty on goods entering Canada in competition with those made by the Canadian steel mills.

STEEL FOR SAWS.
The application of Spear and Jackson, Vancouver branch of the British firm of that name, for a reduction in the tariff on tempered steel for the manufacture of saws to be used in lumber camps of British Columbia was opposed by four Eastern Manufacturers, who temper their own steel for saws they make.

Three of the four opposing firms were branches of United States factories. There was no opposition from the primary steel manufacturers to the request.

HEARING ADJOURNED.
Last night the hearing on the iron and steel items was indefinitely adjourned by W. H. Moore, chairman of the board, in view of the conference of the Algoma Steel Corporation with fabricators of steel and the representative of the Tariff Board, D. H. McDougall, scheduled for February 8 at Montreal. Mr. Moore, earlier in the day, had announced a delay in the further hearing of the application for protection against structural steel.

Earl of Durham Dies in England

Durham, Eng., Feb. 1.—The Fourth Earl of Durham, who succeeded to the peerage only last September at the death of his twin brother, died yesterday at Lambton Castle, Durham, historic home of the family, in his seventy-fourth year.

MAIL PLANES FAILED

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—Unfavorable conditions and the vagaries of mechanism combined yesterday to disrupt Canada's newest air mail service, by which Montreal and Ottawa are connected with the Atlantic seaboard. The two planes operating in the service were forced to the ground before either had completed its scheduled trip, but neither was seriously damaged. The plane on the St. John, N.B., to Halifax route was forced down by fog on Folleigh Lake, eighty-five miles north of Halifax, while the machine from St. John on the westward trip was brought down by engine trouble near Ottawa.

AUTO FATALITY

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 1.—C. P. Myer, sixty-nine, president and general manager of the Vancouver Hotel Company Limited of Vancouver, B.C., died here yesterday from complications which followed automobile accident injuries suffered January 20. Mr. Myer retired from business two years ago and came to San Antonio to live. A year ago he renewed active interest in business and took over the presidency of the Canadian company. MR. HAYWARD AND THE HIGHWAY

THE REMARKS OF MR. HAYWARD, senior member for Victoria, in the House yesterday on the Ocean Highway were timely and to the point. There can be no doubt that they reflected the views of our citizens generally.

Mr. Hayward, who as a successful business man and former mayor is familiar with the needs of this community, realizes that if the efforts of those who are trying to side-track Victoria in regard to the West Coast Road project were successful, this city's future would be seriously compromised. His speech yesterday should remind the Government that through the Premier and the Attorney-General it is pledged to the early resumption of work on the highway as routed by Government engineers. Failure to implement that pledge would deal Victoria a blow from which it never would recover.

Party politics are not involved in this matter. Both parties through their leaders have committed themselves to the construction of the road from Victoria, and every organization and interest here should put itself on record in support of the project, which, for some reason—which may be revealed later—is being menaced from within.

CANADA'S PLACE IN WORLD TRADE

AT THE END OF 1927 CANADA ranked fifth among the countries of the world in import, export and general trade, according to the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce, being exceeded in these respects only by the United Kingdom, United States, Germany and France. The Dominion's rise in international commerce in the war and post-war periods has been extremely remarkable and probably unparalleled. In 1913 Canada ranked only eighth in import trade among world countries. The rise in export trade has been even more outstanding, the Dominion's position among leading countries just prior to the outbreak of the war being tenth in this respect. In general trade in the period Canada has come up from ninth to fifth place. The net imports, exports, and the aggregate trade of the ten leading countries of the world at the end of 1927 were as follows:

IMPORTS
United Kingdom	$5,335,400,000
United States	4,677,900,000
Germany	3,386,100,000
France	2,071,800,000
Canada	1,098,700,000
Italy	1,049,000,000
Netherlands	1,022,400,000
Japan	995,400,000
British India	995,900,000
Argentina	626,800,000
EXPORTS
United States	$4,759,300,000
United Kingdom	3,451,000,000
Germany	2,432,100,000
France	2,154,700,000
Canada	1,218,300,000
British India	1,102,400,000
Argentina	974,000,000
Japan	907,900,000
Italy	804,200,000
Netherlands	762,000,000
AGGREGATE TRADE
United States	$8,836,200,000
United Kingdom	7,786,400,000
Germany	5,798,200,000
France	4,236,500,000
Canada	2,285,000,000
British India	2,059,300,000
Japan	1,903,300,000
Italy	1,853,200,000
Argentina	1,800,800,000
Netherlands	1,784,400,000

The above is a remarkable showing when the size of Canadian population is taken into account and its low rate of increase in the period. This gives the Dominion an even higher relative standing among the nations of the world in per capita trade. In 1913 Canada ranked seventh among all countries in per capita export trade and by 1927 had risen to second place, exceeded only by New Zealand. In import trade Canada ranked seventh per capita in 1913, and in 1927 was fifth. In aggregate per capita trade Canada moved from sixth place in 1913 to second in 1927, the lead again being held by New Zealand. In visible trade balance Canada held third place in 1927, following the United States and British India, while in favorable trade balance per capita, with $15.93, Canada led the entire world. These facts ought to cheer even our pessimists.

ELECTION CRIES

ALTHOUGH IT MAY BE SOME REFLECTION on the intelligence of people in the mass to say that many elections are won by the use of a simple and often unfair slogan, British Columbia's experience last Summer is a case in point. The electorate was told it was "time for a change" and an efficient Administration got its marching orders.

This point is interesting just now because news from the British Isles indicates that the Baldwin Government will go to the country very largely upon its derating proposals, the value of which, quite naturally, the opposition press is continually discounting. Labor, with the second largest following in the present House, on the other hand, is conducting its campaign on the unemployment issue; the Liberals also are devoting a good deal of attention to this subject.

The merits of the derating plan, the justification, or otherwise, of the criticism of the Government's policy for providing work for the idle, are not Canada's affairs. But it is significant that the opposition's appeal with respect to the unemployment situation—a "we want work" cry—continues to win seats from the party in office. Of fifty-five byelections since 1924 the Government has won or retained twenty-nine, while the Liberals have gained eight and the Laborites eighteen.

The last test was in North Midlothian this week, when the Government lost the seat to the Labor Party. As between the Administration's new economic formula and the deplorable condition of hundreds of thousands of workers, therefore, it is quite probable that the subject more easily understood will be the determining factor in the ballot box.

The distribution of votes cast in these byelections, incidentally, shows an overwhelming anti-Government sentiment. Fifty Conservative candidates polled 559,584 votes, forty-nine Laborites polled 483,000, and fifty Liberals polled 392,890—a Liberal-Labor plurality of no less than 316,306 votes.

THE ORCHARDISTS' REAL TROUBLE

IN THE LEGISLATURE ON WEDNESDAY Dr. C. M. Kingston, Government member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, took as his principal text for his contribution to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, the plight of the fruit industry in the interior of the province, particularly in that part of it which he represents. He painted a rather drab picture, but he appeared to speak with a wide knowledge of his subject, expressing opinions which no doubt the Government would rather have heard in different terms.

Dr. Kingston obviously desired to deal with facts, pleasant or unpleasant, and he told the House that the solution of the orchardists' problem lay to a large extent in some form of closer co-operation between the B.C. producer and the prairie consumer—and relief from burdensome freight rates.

By the time a few more supporters of the party now in office have given the Tolmie Government first-hand information about the problems facing the fruit industry it may realize how little there was to support the outcry against the tariff policies of the Administration at Ottawa last Summer.

Several Okanagan growers already have made it plain that their most stubborn difficulty has nothing to do with political nostrums, but almost wholly with the cost of getting their products from their orchards to the consuming public. Even those unfamiliar with the practical features of the fruit-growing industry will realize how almost impossible it must be to market a crop worth about $7,000,000, with something like $2,000,000 eaten up in freight—and make a profit.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

The West has now a Pacific route by Vancouver for its exportable surplus and will shortly have a third outlet in Hudson Bay. Therefore the hope of St. Lawrence development does not stir the West, as it does Ontario. Yes one would not say that there is indifference toward the subject in these provinces. Having no prejudices against working with the United States, they regard the building of a deep waterway co-operatively as inevitable at some future date. That is a fairly accurate statement of Western opinion at this stage.

HOME BREW

The New York Herald-Tribune

Grape acreage throughout the country has quadrupled since 1919. The Vintners' law, to be sure, decides steps the home manufacture of wine. Court decisions have pronounced it legal. But certainly its sale and transportation, except for medicinal or sacramental purposes, is illegal. Yet countless citizens who can make it legally in their kitchens and cellars are selling it illegally, and where is the force big enough to catch them at it?

PROVINCIAL FLAGS

The Montreal Herald

It appears from The Halifax Chronicle that a few days ago the board of trade of that city presented Capt. Reith, master of the Canadian steamer Lady Nelson, with "the flag of Nova Scotia." "What's this?" says The Toronto Star. "Those who say Canada must not have a flag will probably swoon on hearing that Nova Scotia has one."

Our Toronto contemporary's writer would probably not swoon, but drop dead, if he came down to Montreal on a gala day.

THE MACHINE AGE

Le Canada

There can be no denying the fact that, despite the industrial prosperity of the United States, unemployment has been rife there for some time. The Democrats who, before the elections, wished to make a weapon of this against the Republican Party, exaggerated the figures which they published in order to make things look very black. But the Minister of Labor himself has recognized the existence of something like a million unemployed. It is not so very much out of a total of 28,000,000 workers, but it is too much if these million men have been deprived of work through the employment of machines.

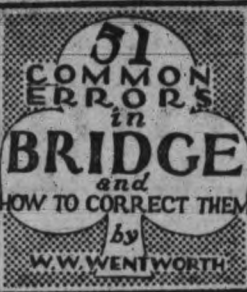

WARDS OF GOVERNMENT

The Sherbrooke Tribune

The well-being of the native population of Northern Canada is attracting more and more the attention of the Federal Government. The importance of the role which the natives of the Far North, the Eskimos in particular, are called upon to play in the future development of the regions situated on the Arctic Circle, has long been recognized and the Minister of the Interior, through the agency of his service in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, has made the greatest possible efforts to improve the conditions of life of these wards of Government.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, February 1, 1904

Mah Quan, manager of the Chinese Theatre, was attacked by an infuriated gang of his countrymen early yesterday morning, and received injuries from which he expired a few hours later.

London, January 30: On Tuesday, February 2, King Edward will open in full state what promises to be one of the most interesting and most important sessions in the history of British parliament.

It is probable that before many weeks Victoria will again have a direct steamship line to Tacoma. The Alaska Steamship Company is considering the matter and, it is said, is favorably disposed to provide the service.

The C.P.R. steamer Amur arrived last evening from Alaska with a large general cargo and a large passenger list.

On Saturday afternoon the Victoria and Garrison teams put up one of the finest exhibitions of association football seen this season on local grounds. Ideal weather prevailed, and there was a large attendance to see the struggle of the provincial league series. After a hard game, in which both the soldiers and the civilians put up some excellent combination, the whistle blew with two goals to the credit of each eleven.

The Victoria Hunt Club met at the residence of James Dunsmuir on Saturday afternoon.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Moderate to fresh westerly winds, generally fair and cold, with frosts at night.

The annual meeting of British Columbia Conservative Association will be held this evening in the Eagles' Hall.

AIMEE AGAIN IS SUBPOENAED

Evangelist Has to Appear in Sacramento February 21 For Inquiry

Los Angeles, Feb. 1.—Aimee Semple McPherson was subpoenaed yesterday to appear in Sacramento February 21 before the legislative committee of the California Legislature, which is now conducting an investigation here into her gift of $2,500 cheque to Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy.

Members of the committee indicated this was done to keep her within that body's jurisdiction and to have her available to testify in case impeachment action is taken against Judge Hardy.

New offers of witnesses to testify promise to continue the investigation here for several days, committee members said, and it was decided to release the evangelist.

THIS SLIP NEVER SLIPS OUT OF PLACE By Florence La Ganks

Lola was getting ready for a party and everything was going wrong. The dress she should have worn was at the cleaner's. The slip which she had to wear under the other dress was too long. There was just a half hour before she had to leave the house. "I tell you what I'll do," she said to herself. "I'll make up that new slip." And she did. She had told a yard and a half of material. Being a slim person, she

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, tired eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

WILL PRESENT MYSTERY PLAY

Drama of Christ's Power to Be Played at Memorial Hall on February 6 and 7

"The Gift," a one-act play of unusual charm and winning appeal will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, February 6 and 7, in the Memorial Hall, in connection with the Seventeenth Anniversary Exhibition and Bazaar. The play was first performed in New York City, November 5, 1920, with a cast of well-known players. There are six characters in all, and the scene is laid in a little town of Judea. The action passes in the room of a peasant's home in the year A.D. 30.

Joel, a little lame boy, firmly believes the Galilean can cure him of his lameness if he will go and ask Him. In preparation the boy makes a wreath of white roses as a gift for the Galilean. Huldah, with whom Joel lives, a woman with neither heart nor imagination, ridicules the boy's faith, throws the wreath into the fire and frustrates the boy's going by leaving him in sole charge of her father, an aged and infirm man.

A stranger, blind, also seeking the Galilean, to regain his sight, stops at the door for food and rest. The boy takes him in. Accidentally the stranger comes in contact with the charred

CHILD REFUSES TO FEED HERSELF

Mrs. G. B. writes:

"My little girl is almost two years old and she simply won't feed herself. She has a high chair to sit in and when I give her soup or anything else she won't eat it and won't eat until I am forced down her. How can I get her to feed herself? What would you suggest as a menu for a child of this age?"

Most children prefer to feed themselves, and I think they all would if they were started in early enough. Now you have two factors to deal with—indifference to food and therefore no personal interest in eating.

Three meals a day is the first rule. Breakfast between seven and eight; dinner between twelve and one, and supper between six and seven. Fruit juice, cooked cereal, toast and milk for breakfast. Lamb chop, chicken, calves liver, steak or egg; two kinds of vegetables (small amounts), simple dessert and cup of milk for dinner. Cereal or baked potato, small dish of steamed fruit and cup of milk for supper. There are all kinds and varieties of cereals, vegetables, and fruits, so wreath which Joel has dragged from the fire. The stranger hears about the wreath's purpose and offers to carry it to the Galilean. Joel explains its sorry plight.

The stranger then learns of the boy's desire to be cured and offers himself to remain there with the aged man while the boy goes to get his heart's desire. The boy accepts the stranger's great sacrifice (much to the disappointment of the old invalid), and leaves the house. However, in a few minutes the boy is back again crying out that he cannot go. "It is much worse being blind than being lame," the stranger is put upon the road by the boy to seek the Galilean. The boy watching him through the window sees the stranger meet with a Traveler, sees the giving of his burnt wreath to the Traveler, his transformation into beautiful roses as it touches the Traveler's hands, then the return of the stranger no longer blind to the house. In his joy the boy leaps across the room to the door to find that his crutches have dropped to the floor, and he has leaped across the room unaided—cured.

The play ends with much joy for all three in the room while outside is heard the voice of the unbeliever, "Strange we missed Him. He must have passed this way." The stranger answers, "Yes, He passed this way."

Season tickets, admitting the holder as many times as desired to the exhibition from February 6 to 9, are obtainable now at city music stores, and at other places. In Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. Proceeds from the sale of tickets and from the exhibition and bazaar, will be devoted to the fund for completing the baptistry and "children's corner" in the new Christ Church Cathedral.

A child this age would eat much better. I feel sure, if placed in a higher than ordinary chair (with no tray) and given her food at the table with the adults, or else given a very low chair and a small table of suitable size for children. She must realize that she is no longer a baby and a high chair with a tray makes her cling to her baby habits of feeding because in this chair she was always fed by the mother.

Lady Malcolm Praises Women Of Australia

Admiration for the pioneer spirit of the women of Australia living in the agricultural areas was expressed last night by Lady Evelyn Malcolm, wife of D. O. Malcolm, who was a member of the British Economic Mission to Australia. Mrs. Malcolm and Lady Evelyn arrived here last night aboard the R.M.S. Acragani.

"It is really splendid the way these women work their very hearts out without complaint," said Lady Malcolm. "While our husbands were working on their investigations the ladies of the mission went out into the country during the tour and had a considerable opportunity of examining the conditions under which these people exist."

"I saw several cases where girls of probably seventeen or eighteen were married and went to live with their husbands in small shacks. By sheer dint of perseverance and hard work, they gradually built up their homes and finally were able to live comfortably. I suppose you have a similar type of women in Canada in outlying communities."

Lady Evelyn was formerly the wife of the late Col. Francis Farquhar.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION SUPPORTED

Rotarians Hear Able Exposition of Aims and Results of Applied Training

Robert R. Neild and School Trustees Guests of Rotary Club

An instructive address in support of the benefits of technical education was made by Robert R. Neild, a former Rotarian, to members of the Rotary Club, at the regular luncheon at the Empress Hotel yesterday. Trustees George Jay, Alex. Peden, and G. A. Hebden attended as guests of the club and spoke briefly on the proposed technical high school.

"If we are to encourage home industry, it is our duty to develop more attention to technical training, so as to attain to the highest standard of efficiency in all our industrial plants and to make the very best use of our natural resources and in order that we may be able to compete with all other industrial countries of the world and make our Province and our Dominion the foremost place for our boys to live in," said Mr. Neild.

NEEDED IN B.C.

"The opportunities which present themselves in this Province for a technical student are numerous, as more engineering projects are being contemplated in British Columbia than in any other province in the Dominion. Hence, if we are to have our boys participate in this advancement we need to give them an opportunity of a technical training," continued the speaker.

"It is not necessary for a boy, because he attends a technical school, to follow up some trade, but special requirements are made for the trade student, and it does not debar a boy from attending the university if he wishes to follow a professional course. "It is appalling when you see the number of misfits who, had they been trained in the groove which they were adapted for earlier in life would have made a success. Now many parents are puzzled to know just what trade or profession their sons are best adapted for, but when a boy is given the opportunity of seeing what is required from him before branching out, he knows what calling he is best suited for and will train his mind accordingly."

APPLIED TRAINING

The value of a technical education was that it trained the hand, the eye, and the brain on sound common sense lines, with materials that a boy recognized and took an interest in, continued the speaker. Technical training in no sense turned out finished craftsmen, but did produce boys who were trained in a perception of what would be required of them in practice, and ready to learn for themselves, Mr. Neild said.

Without this training many boys left school to take up employment which satisfied them for three or four years, but on reaching manhood found that they had not been equipped for advancement in that line, and had to make way for boys who were. Their places were invariably filled by boys who had had the benefit of a technical education, while the untrained boys went to swell the growing ranks of those without a place, or ultimately to the roll of the unemployed, said Mr. Neild.

CHAIRMAN OF BOARD

Trustees George Jay was introduced to the club by Trustee Alex. Peden, who is a Rotarian. Mr. Jay outlined in detail the proposed plan for the technical high school, and showed how the city school accommodation was already taxed to the limit, and with a certainty of having additional students to provide for next September. A year ago, continued Mr. Jay, he had had the pleasure of addressing the club, when he had said that this increase in students was certain to come, and his prediction had proved correct.

Rotarians, said Mr. Jay, make up their minds to the fact that additional accommodation would have to be found

Feed your Nerves and forget them

IT IS impossible to forget nerves that are nagging day and night, rendering life almost unbearable. The cause is simple. Strained nerves are starved nerves. During the daily grind you are "burning up" nerve cells and tissues and are doing nothing to replace them.

The solution also is simple. Stimulants and drugs are useless. They frequently do much more harm than good. What you require is nourishment—nourishment that is correctly balanced. Nourishment that will quickly rebuild worn nerves and replace lost energy. Ovaltine will supply this in abundant measure.

Ovaltine is not a mere haphazard mixture of its several ingredients, but is manufactured by an exclusive scientific process. Ovaltine retains, unimpaired, all the essential elements of its valuable ingredients—ripe barley malt, fresh eggs, (which embody a wealth of organic phosphorus compounds upon which the brain and nerves especially rely), and creamy milk from England's richest pastures. All the vitamins, properly proportioned, are present in Ovaltine. It is delicious and easily digested.

For health the year 'round drink Ovaltine, at and between meals. Feed your nerves and forget them.

Victoria Cubs Lose To Portland Bucks In Clean, Fast Game

Bobby Rowe's Club Takes Second Place in Pacific Coast Hockey League by 3-0 Victory; Home Club Nets Two Goals in First Period and Adds One More in Third; Cubs Rush Every Man On to Attack in Last Few Minutes in Desperate Effort to Score; "Moose" Johnson Returns to Game

Portland, Ore., Feb. 1.—Portland's Buckaroos shut out the Victoria Cubs here last night in a fast, clean Pacific Coast Hockey League game 3-0. There was little rough stuff, the Portland club having gotten it out of its system in the two last clashes with Seattle. But one penalty was chalked up until the third period, Jacques, making his debut for the Bucks, in the absence of McGoldrick, who was injured, incurring the wrath of Referee Ion.

The Bucks put the game on ice in the first period, scoring two of their goals. As a result of their win the Bucks are now in second place.

Teel started scoring by skating down centre ice and taking advantage of the new rule, passing to Conn, well up in Victoria territory. Conn made a fast shot which beat Robertson.

A LUCKY GOAL
The second was a lucky one for the locals. Jacques was close to the boards when he took a long shot at Robertson. The puck hit the skate of Eernie Leacock and caromed into the net.

There was nothing doing in the second period in the scoring line both teams playing a strong defence game. Both goalies had to stop a number of difficult shots, but kept the net clear. The Teel Downie started trouble for the Cubs again in the third. He managed to beat the Victoria defence, but when near the fence, seeing that he could not crowd in toward the net, shot to Teel, who was close to the net. Teel snapped it into the goal before Robertson could clear it.

CUBS TRY HARD
The Cubs taking advantage of a Portland penalty in the last period, swept down the ice in solid formation, in a desperate effort to score. They made it hot for Timmins. Once when the puck was quite a distance from the net Timmins took a chance, but fell on it, probably taking a lesson from Levine the "safety first" Seattle net custodian.

Victoria—Robertson, Redpath, Kenny, Evans, Kelly, H. Runge, Osmundsen, Leacock and Pritchard.
Portland—Timmins, Johnson, Jacques, Downie, Teel, Conn, Armstrong, Pratt and Bond.
Summary:
First period—1, Portland, Teel from Conn, 10:58; 2, Portland, Jacques, 6:55.
Second period—No score.
Third period—3, Portland, Teel from Downie, 7:22.
Penalties:
First period—None.
Second period—Jacques.
Third period—Kenny, Downie, Pritchard and Jacques.
Referee—Ion.

STELLAR GOLF SEEN AT MIAMI

Finals Reached Yesterday in Southern Best Ball Team Tournament

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—Stellar golf featured the advance of four professionals yesterday to the finals of the Miami open best ball team tournament at the Miami Country Club.

Mike Brady, Manaroneck, N.Y., and Eddie Williams, Cleveland, went to the finals from the upper bracket by trimming Joe Turnesa and Joe Mazzotti, both of Elmford, N.Y., in a match that went twenty holes before it was decided.

In the lower bracket, Willie Dow, Fargo, N.D., and Jim Danks, Chicago, played nineteen holes to win a one-up match from Eddie Lund, Fairfield, Conn., and George Jacobs, Ridgewood, N.Y.

PLAY-OFF TO-DAY
The two teams will play off a thirty-six-hole final match to-day.

Earlier Brady and Williams defeated Harry Hampton, Key West, and Alex. Ayton, Springfield, Ill., one up, while Turnesa and Mazzotti won 3 and 2 from Norman Barron, Port Chester, New York and George O'Connell, New York.

SEEKS DIVORCE

WALTER HAGEN

Los Angeles, Feb. 1.—Walter Hagen filed suit for divorce in superior court here yesterday, alleging that his wife had deserted him. Hagen said that he had been "kind and indulgent and had at all times provided an excellent home and every care for her happiness and welfare," but that his wife left him on March 3, 1927, at St. Petersburg, Fla., and refused to return.

The Hagens were married in New York on April 6, 1923. They have no children. Hagen is spending the winter here.

His wife, Edna C. Hagen, was a prominent eastern society woman, but her residence is not known.

JACK SAYS 'FIGHT WILL BE STAGED'

Denies Reports That Stribling-Sharkey Bout at Miami Will Be Called Off

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 1.—Jack Dempsey insists that the Sharkey-Stribling fight will go on as scheduled. Apparently somewhat perturbed by rumors he has heard that the fight will be called off, or moved to some other locality, the promoter late yesterday issued a formal statement emphasizing that these stories "are without foundation."

Dempsey called attention to activity of 200 workmen erecting an arena, and announced that the ticket sale already had passed the $125,000 mark.

Dempsey spent most of yesterday supervising the opening of a Miami ticket office for the sale of seats. He also located approximately $50,000 worth of ticket reservations.

SHARKEY RECEPTION
Plans were completed to-day for the reception to-night of Jack Sharkey, who will arrive to begin training for the fight.

Stribling yesterday went through his initial paces. He skipped ropes for more than an hour and gave the sunshine ample opportunity to blister arms and shoulders.

"I want to get tanned so that any possible sunburn will not interfere with steady work."

The Macon, Ga., boy plans to do his roadwork at night.

Ladies' Tourney At Oak Bay Has Been Postponed
Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions the ladies' foursome knock-out competition scheduled to start at the Victoria Golf Club to-day has been postponed until February 23. The entry list will close on Friday, February 22, at 4 o'clock.

Fourex Put Keating Out Of Running

Bakers Chalk Up 20-15 Win Over Suburbanites in City League Hoop Game

James Island Retain Leadership, Defeating Hudson's Bay; Fidelis Win Easily

Fourex, senior "C" basketball tossers, put Keating out of the running for their division championship by handing them a 20-15 defeat. James Island retained the leadership of the group by gaining a 21-19 victory over the Hudson's Bay Company, while in the ladies' game of the evening Fidelis trimmed the Nuggets 36-14.

Keating gained an 8-4 lead over the veterans in the opening half through the good shooting of Kersey and Mitchell. Bob Peden and Bob Whyte countered for the winners in this period, but both teams were checking heavily and all shots were from a long distance.

In the second half the craft and experience of the veterans play for the bakers offset the speed and aggressiveness of the suburbanites. Right after the whistle Fourex gained the lead and then protected it with a good defence.

Bill Blair refereed.
The teams were as follows:
Fourex—Morris, Peden, B. Macmurchie, 4, Land, Cartwright, Macmurchie 2 and Whyte 6.
Keating—Mitchell 5, L. Styan, R. Kersey 8, F. Sutton, N. Tanner and A. Styan 2.

James Island just managed to nose out the boys from Hudson's Bay to keep at the head of the senior "C" division. Both teams played careful ball in the first half, and at the rest interval the Islanders held an 8-4 lead.

The driving finish put on by the Hudson's Bay men was not quite sufficient to land them a victory, and when the final whistle blew they were on the short end of a 21-19 score.

Oide and Smith were the shining stars for the victors, while Addie and Cann shone for the Bays.
Jack Taylor refereed.

The teams were:
James Island—Oide 8, Ross 4, Atkinson 1, Smith 6, Thomson and Rivers 2.
Hudson's Bay—Addie 9, Brown, Tripp, Cann 8, Davey and McMillan 2.

FIDELIS WIN EASILY
Fidelis kept their record clean, by defeating the Nuggets 36-14 in the ladies' game. The winners were never headed throughout the encounter and won easily.
Jack Taylor refereed.

The teams were:
Fidelis—Foubister 8, Freeman 10, Robertson 2, Bailey 8, Philbrook 4, Breckenridge and Macmurchie 4.
Nuggets—H. Scott 10, W. Fairweather, J. Vickers, D. Rendle and N. Scott.

Welsh Football Team Will Tour Canada This Year

Toronto, Feb. 1.—The Toronto Star said in its sports columns yesterday: "It is now definitely decided that a Welsh soccer team will visit Canada during the coming season and will play in Toronto on either May 17 or 25. There have been visits of both English and Scottish teams and it is hoped that the tour of the Welshmen will be just as successful as were the others. The tour will be under the auspices of the Dominion of Canada Football Association."

The team is expected to play in Victoria around June 22, but no definite word has yet been received by local soccer officials.

One of Most Promising Pitchers

GEORGE EARNSHAW

When Connie Mack assembles his Philadelphia Athletics at Fort Meyers this Spring, special attention will be given to one, George W. Earnshaw.

Earnshaw is one of the best pitching prospects of the American League and incidentally the apple of Mr. Mack's eye.

Last year, his first in the majors, George got off to an indifferent start, but in the closing days of the campaign made good the expectations Connie Mack had for him.

Earnshaw is a tall, rangy right-hander, and his specialty is speed. None other than Bucky Harris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, says Earnshaw has more stuff than any first year pitcher he has seen in years.

Harris blames George's wild streak on the fact the big pitcher takes too little time between pitches and a smart batter can upset him by a little well-timed stalling at the plate.

Last year he took part in twenty-six games, winning seven and losing the same number. While this may not be anything to throw convulsions over, it remains that he came fast during September, and it's likely he'll still have plenty of momentum when they start the season in April.

Connie Mack hand-picked Earnshaw from the Baltimore Orioles, the team that gave Lefty Grove, George's illustrious teammate, to the majors.

Tubes Play Bapcos In Semi-final

To-night's Winner to Play Plimley and Ritchie For Commercial Hockey Title

Cyclamen Will Meet All-star Team in Exhibition Game

Playing in a sudden-death game for the right to meet Plimley and Ritchie in the finals for the championship of the Commercial Hockey League, Bapcos will muster the strongest team they can for their encounter with the Brilliant Tubes at the Arena to-night.

Fitz, who, by their victory last Friday, gained the right to enter the playoffs, are unable to field a team and consequently have defaulted their privileges to the paintmen. Preceding the feature game, Plimley and Ritchie, leaders of the league, will play an all-star team, composed of the best players on the other squads of the loop.

Steve Redgrave, well-known sportsman, will manage the all-stars and it is his intention to give the cyclamen stiff opposition this evening.

BOTH TEAMS STRONG
With Emery in goal and Bayliss and Unwin on the forward line, Bapcos are optimistic over the results of to-night's encounter. However, Temple, Patrick and Lawson should give the paintmen's net-tender plenty of exercise and Hunter is expected to guard the signmen's goal with his usual efficiency.

The teams will be as follows:
Brilliant Tube—Hunter, V. Simpson, A. Simpson, D. Stewart, C. Usher, J. Stewart, I. Temple, L. Patrick, B. Smith and R. Lawson.

Bapcos—Emery, Blesdale, McGregor, Unwin, McKenzie, McDonald, Bayliss, Chatton, McConnell, Hunt and McPhee.

Plimley and Ritchie—Oatman, Russell, Green, F. Tyrell, N. Tyrell, Savanash, Young, Symons, Turner and Nelson.

All-stars—Hollingworth, Bates, Allan, Foster, Fitzsimmons, Downman, Sparks, Nicholson, Clarke and Fomery.

Allan Tuckwell will referee both games.

RAY MILLER TO BATTLE GROGAN IN RETURN BOUT

Detroit, Feb. 1.—Ray Miller, whose left hand has cleared him a path to the position of one of Sammy Mandell's outstanding challengers, will seek to duplicate his victory of three weeks ago over Tommy Grogan, Omaha, lightweight, here to-night.

The last meeting between the two was one of the most sensational battles in Detroit ring history and the prospect of another such exhibition is expected to attract a record attendance to the Olympia Arena.

Miller stopped the Omaha boxer in the fourth round of the last battle, but was himself on the verge of a knock-out in the second.

Five N.H.L. Goalies Keep Scores Down In Fine Performances

Work of Netminders Outstanding in Last Night's Encounters; New York Rangers Retain Lead by Evening Up Series With Americans; John Roach, Goalie, Is Star in Rangers' 2-1 Victory;

Boston Bruins Hang Up Eleventh Win by Defeating Toronto 3-1; Maroons Retain Third Place by 2-0 Win Over Chicago

Toronto, Feb. 1.—One of the standard complaints in the National Hockey League is that there is not enough scoring. The only remedy, it seems, is to get a new set of goaltenders, who are not so good as the present guardians of the nets. In three games last night no fewer than five goalies put on performances that were outstanding features, yet none of them were performing above their usual standard.

ELEVENTH VICTORY
Boston Bruins also had the services of an expert in the nets when they hung up their eleventh victory in thirteen games to stay on the heels of the Rangers in the American group standing. Boston scored three times against Toronto, while the Leafs could get only one counter past Tiny Thompson, who has let only five shots get by him in the last seven games.

Benedict turned in his second successive shutout for the Montreal Maroons, giving them a 3-0 victory over the lowly Chicago Black Hawks. Without Dick Irvin and Vic Ripley, the tailenders of the league were not able to do much offensively, but their net guardian, Charles Gardiner, did a great job in holding down the score.

Dave Trotter, former Olympic star, scored his first goal since he became a pro, and Nels Stewart notched his sixteenth of the season to give the Maroons the victory and a tighter hold on their place in the Canadian group.

Toronto, Feb. 1.—The Boston Bruins passed number thirteen in their continuous championship of the city last night by downing Toronto, 3-1, in a National Hockey League game.

Bill Carson of the Bruins opposed his old teammate, Charles Gardiner, who was the final Boston tally.

The Bruins well earned the victory. George Owen, ex-Harvard star, bagged one of the Bruins' counters.

The line-ups:
Boston—Thompson, Shore, Hitchman, Oliver, Galbraith, Lane, Gainer, Owen, Clapper, Weiland and Mackay.
Toronto—Chabot, Duncan, Smith, Blair, Bailey, Cox, Day, Horner, Pettigrew and Lowery.

Summary:
First period—1, Toronto, Bailey, 7:12.
2, Boston, Galbraith, 7:03.
Second period—3, Boston, Mackay, 12:57.
Third period—4, Boston, Owen, 13:15.

New York, Feb. 1.—The New York Rangers evened the series with the Bruins last night by taking the final game from the Americans by a 2 to 1 count. Each team now has one victory and two games have been tied. The Hawks enabled the Rangers to hold their lead over Boston in the American group of the National Hockey League and left the Americans second in the international section.

The line-ups:
Rangers—Roach, Abel, Bourgauf, Boucher, Thompson, Bun Cook, Murdoch, Keeling, Catman and Vail.
Americans—Worters, Reise, Conacher, Burch, Broadbent, Connor, Himes, McVeigh, Simpson, Bouchard, Dye and Sheppard.

Summary:
First period—No score.
Second period—1, Americans, Burch, 13:12.
3, Rangers, Abel, 16:01.
Third period—3, Rangers, Bourgauf, 9:49.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—The Montreal Maroons held safely to third place in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League by scoring a 2 to 0 victory over Chicago here last night.

The Maroons played the Hawks practically throughout the game, but close checking by the visitors backed by Gardiner's spectacular goal-tending, held the locals most of the time. Dave Trotter got one of the goals, the first that the former Canadian Olympic star has obtained since he joined the professional ranks.

The line-ups:
Montreal—Benedict, Dutton, Smith, Stewart, Ward, Stebert, Hicks, Phillips, Lamb, Trotter and Robinson.
Chicago—Gardiner, Taylor, Wentworth, Miller, McKinnon, Gottselig, March, Couture and Arbour.

Summary:
First period—1, Montreal, Trotter, 10:30.
Second period—No score.
Third period—2, Montreal, Stewart, 13:29.

Wrestlers From Australia Pass Through Victoria

En route to the United States seeking wrestling honors, Pat McCarthy and Johnny Kilonis, two wrestlers from Sydney, Australia, passed through Victoria last night aboard the R.M.S. Acragani.

McCarthy, a heavyweight, will attempt to lift the crown at present held by Gus Sonnenberg, famous for his flying tackle. Sonnenberg recently won the title from the veteran "Strangler" Lewis.

Kilonis, a light heavyweight, will seek a match with Clarence Ecklund, who holds the light heavyweight championship. Ecklund won the title during a recent tournament in Australia.

Phil Scott Wins European Title From Sandwina

London, Feb. 1.—Phil Scott, English heavyweight, won from Ted Sandwina of Germany on a foul in the fifth round of their fight at Albert Hall last night for the heavyweight title of Europe. In addition to the regular purse the battlers had put up side stakes amounting to £3,500. Although Sandwina was promptly disqualified, it was clear that the foul was accidental.

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles. Peps contains certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs. While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and healing commences.

JIM JEFFRIES

His Own Story

As Told to HUGH FULLERTON

CHAPTER XXV

HOW BURNS BECAME "CHAMPION"

I was twenty-nine years old, in fine physical condition, anxious to fight, and I realized how Alexander felt when he sighed for more worlds to conquer. There were no heavyweights left for me to meet, and I found no pleasure in the idea of going around and knocking out a lot of young fellows with more courage than skill or strength. The idea of doing what is now called "knocking over a setup" was distasteful to me.

Besides that the fight game was in bad condition in 1905. Practically every state in the United States had put the ban on boxing. New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other of the larger cities forbade the sport. The only state that tolerated even twenty-round contests was California and out there, I was considered unbeatable and no one would consider matching me.

OUT OF A JOB

There were a number of good heavy middleweights, or light-heavyweights, but all too small to offer a fair competition, and it looked as if I had fought myself out of a job. I was again in fine physical condition and anxious to fight. There were no heavyweights anywhere on the horizon. We looked over England, Australia and South Africa, hoping to find a contender, but none appeared.

Delaney, in desperation issued perhaps the most sweeping challenge ever made. He challenged the world, and offered to have me fight the three leading heavyweights of the world—

Sharkey, Corbett and Fitzsimmons on three successive nights, and intimated that I would agree to stop all of them. The challenge yielded a great deal of first page publicity, but the three named had enjoyed bad health in meeting me, and wanted no more of it—and besides—all were past their prime.

DECIDES TO RETIRE

I studied the situation for a long time carefully, counted my money and decided to retire as the undefeated champion. When I discovered there was no man in the world ready to give me a fight with any chance of making it a real contest I announced my retirement. I figured that, by the time any boxer developed who was in the class of the great heavies who had held the centre of the stage when I started upward, I would be far past my prime. I was only twenty-nine; far too young, I believed, to retire, but there was no alternative.

I retired to my ranch at Burbank, Cal., determined to spend the rest of my life in farming, cattle raising and in hunting and fishing. I loved best. My retirement left the title open and immediately a number of claimants sought to seize upon it and use the title for their gain.

ON BORDER LINE

At that time, in 1905, there were two very clever and fast men on the border line between the heavy and the middleweight limits—Marvin Hart and Jack Root. Root, a smart, fast fellow, had beaten George Gardner, and had outgrown the middleweights. Neither he nor Hart was really big enough to meet men of the size of Corbett, Sharkey, Rublin, myself or any of the big division. They commenced to talk of a new classification of "belters" to be called light-heavyweights, although at that time there was no such division recognized.

Hart and Root were matched to meet for some mythical championship at Reno, Nevada, and I was asked to referee the bout. Lou Houseman, my old friend of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, was managing Root, and before the fight I was requested to bestow the title of heavyweight champion of the world on the winner.

"I have no right to pass the title in this way," I explained although willing to do it, especially as a favor to Lou. "The only way anyone should be declared a champion is by fighting and beating the champion."

The promoters argued and urged, and I said: "I will never go back into the ring, so you may do as you please. If the winner wants to call himself champion it is all right with me."

PROCLAIMED CHAMPION

Hart defeated Root, and was proclaimed the champion, and Burns grabbed his title from Hart, and Johnson from Burns, the few line starting with the Reno battle.

It was several years, however, before the public came to look upon any of them as being real champions. Meantime I was hunting, fishing and running the ranch at Burbank, and commenced to forget the years of fighting. Then I went to Los Angeles and started a cafe in South Spring Street, taking as my partner Jack Kipper. I placed my brother Jack in charge of my interests and having entire faith in both Jack and Kipper, decided the time had come when I might hunt and fish as much as I pleased, entering upon the most wonderful and pleasant period of my life.

LOVED HUNTING

As a boy I had loved hunting and fishing. Father encouraged all of us boys to hunt and fish, taught us from his rich store of knowledge of the woods and waters, and gave us rifles and shotguns, instructing us carefully as to their use. He would not permit us to own revolvers, and for that reason, probably, we always wanted to own them. With four boys, all husky and active except Tom, who was a cripple, growing up our rivalry in hunting especially, was keen. Forbidden to have shotguns naturally made us want them, and we saved our pin money and each owned a huge "Sigsbee." We did not practice shooting as much as we did being quick on the draw, being full of Wild West and dime novels. Almost every man in those days carried a gun in his pocket, and we wanted to be like them. One day while we were practicing John shot himself in the hand, which swelled badly. He, father and Jack were driving into the barn with a load of oranges when father noticed the injured hand. John told him he had hurt it falling on a barrow, but father looking at it, found powder burns.

"How does a harrow tooth make powder burns?" he asked. "Oh that!" said John trying to think quickly. "I set off some powder in the barn and did that." John wasn't a very good liar. He might as well have told father he had set off dynamite in the barn. He started to jump to escape father's grab, and father grabbed an orange and hit John right on the nose.

GET A LICKING

Then he marched all of us to the house, asked our sisters if they had heard shooting and demanded that we surrender the revolvers. We refused and he proceeded to give us each a good thrashing, trying to make us tell where the guns were hidden. Finally mother interfered. "Lex," she said, "you've gone far enough, leave it to me. I'll get those guns." Father dropped the switch and walked away, whistling as he always did when he did not trust himself to talk.

HAD GUNS CACHED

We had the guns cached in an old stovepipe buried in the reservoir bank, and when father went to town we would get the guns out and practice. Not a word was said about the guns for days. Then one morning mother sent me to bring in some wood, and I found the guns at the woodpile, all smashed to pieces with the axe. We were scared, thinking what might have happened had one of the cartridges exploded while she was breaking up the guns, and it cured our desire to own revolvers.

THE JEFFRIES CROUCH

When I was about seventeen I started to carry a forty-four, for no reason excepting perhaps I thought it was manly. I packed that around for four years until, one morning mother came into my room and seeing me sleeping late, jerked a pillow from under my head saying:

"Get up, you big lazy fellow. Breakfast is ready."

Then the gun fell from the bed as she jerked the pillow and I received the worst scolding mother ever gave me.

"Aren't you ashamed?" she demanded. "A big, strong fellow like you carrying a gun? Are you afraid? Are you a coward? Little and I stay here in the house alone at night and are not afraid. Why should you carry a gun?"

I was ashamed and handed her the gun saying:

"Mother, you ought to have a gun in the house, keep this one."

I never carried a gun afterwards, excepting on hunting trips.

Minor Hockey League Results

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Detroit Olympics suffered the unusual ignominy of defeat before the last traveling Buffalo Bisons at Fort Erie in last night's Canadian Professional Hockey League game. The Bisons outscored the league leaders 2-1 to gain their only victory so far this season over Detroit, who have lost only seven of the twenty-six games they have played this season.

Besides scoring the two goals which gave them victory, the Bisons sagged the twine on three occasions when goals were not allowed.

Fort William, Feb. 1.—Notching three goals in the third period Fort William seniors swamped Fort Arthur here last night after the teams had battled evenly for two-thirds of the game. The final count was 3-0.

Minneapolis, Feb. 1.—Minneapolis defeated St. Louis in an American Hockey Association game here last night by a score of 1-0.

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—The San Francisco and Oakland hockey teams last night played a scoreless draw here.

AT THE THEATRES

COLISEUM PLAYERS SPLENDID COMPANY AT THE COLISEUM

To-morrow will see the final performance of the first week offering of the new Coliseum stock company at the Coliseum Theatre. There will be three shows to-morrow—one in the afternoon commencing at 1:30 o'clock, and two in the evening, one at 7:30 o'clock and the other about 10 o'clock. Under the direction of Raymond "Toby" Leitch the new company has been playing to large and enthusiastic audiences all the week and present indications point to a long and successful run. In Victoria the clever little group. This week's offering, which is the company's initial one, has been popular with all who have seen it, and despite the inclemency of weather conditions record houses have turned out to the Coliseum every evening. Both individually and collectively the company is splendid and plenty of clever comedies are in store for Victoria theatregoers for the new company has been taken on by the manager for an indefinite engagement which will probably mean more than six months. Mr. Leitch is a clever character comedian and has already proved his worth at the head of the company. Miss Leone Weber, leading lady with the group, is also a talented actress and before long promises to become a great favorite with Coliseum patrons. Others in the cast are Miss Esther Todd, Miss Ada Daniels, Paul Wallace, Forrest Taylor, Frank Cluff and William Bagley.

On the screen this week Toby Company is starring in the latest film release, a picture entitled "The Desert Bride."

During the filming of Fox Film "Prep and Pep" at Culver Military Academy, Nancy Drexel was royally honored by the faculty and cadets at the commencement exercises. Nancy was given the privilege of awarding many of the medals and other trophies given to the students of exceptional record.

Had the students known that they were to receive their merits from Nancy, in class work, perhaps competition would have been keener.

David Roling, popular 16-year-old juvenile with the irresistible smile, plays the featured role in this colorful story of a boy's school days, now being shown at the Playhouse.

LOUISE FAZENDA STARS IN STORY AT THE DOMINION

Who nowadays can think of spectacles and the movies without recalling the ingratiating Harold Lloyd. Whether or not Harold started the fad, the four-eye disguise has been adopted by many a star with astonishing effect.

In "The Terror," Warner Bros. great melodramatic laughing hit, now showing at the Dominion Theatre, glasses play a big part.

Louise wears them—panic-stricken, shrieking, out-of-control-questioning Louise Fazenda transforms her charming presence into that of a ludicrous widow lady by the use of the huge horn-rimmed kind of specs affected by the "serious thinker."

John Miljan, ex-leatherneck and husky athlete—transforms himself into a quivering old invalid by the use of a sprinkling of hair powder, an open mouth and gaping spectacles, and Otto Hoffman, who does an amusing female impersonation, has cork-screw curls and spectacles.

Thomas Santschi, prominently cast in "Land of the Silver Fox," the Warner Bros. production now at the Columbia Theatre, is another "Gentleman from Indiana." He hails from Kokomo, the Santschi screen career began with Betty in "The Cris." Among other vehicles for his strenuous talents have been "The Spoilers," "The Garden of Allah," "Mother McQuire," "Scarlet Shadow," "The Right of the Strongest" and "When a Man Loves."

"LILAC TIME" IS FINE AIR PICTURE AT THE CAPITOL

Double-barreled exterior settings were erected for First National's special, "Lilac Time," starring Colleen Moore, in the remote camp in Southern California where the thrilling aerial sequences were made for this production, now at the Capitol Theatre.

Although every foot of lumber, every nail at every sack of cement had to be hauled tediously overland by truck, every setting was built as though it were to stand for a hundred years.

A small army of carpenters, plumbers and mechanics spent a month in constructing the seventeen buildings. Each unit was complete and practical. No detail was overlooked to make the environment not only the exact replica of the war period, but also habitable for the hundreds of persons taking part in the making of the picture.

A Sure Thing
"I knew a man who knew before-hand the exact year, month, day, hour and manner of his death, and whose premonition was fulfilled to the smallest particular."
"How did he know all that?"
"The judge told him."

THE "DUMBELLS" STILL POPULAR

Ten Years' Touring in Canada
Increases Fame of Talented Company

Taking the press reports of the Dumbells' newest revue, "Why Worry?" from the Toronto dailies, collectively and individually, Capt. Plunkett knew whereof he spoke when he titled his tenth annual revue. One and all, they congratulate the captain on his showmanship as evidenced by the addition of a dozen charming Canadian girls. They also remark the fact that he has retained practically all of the old-timers and has provided them with excellent material in the way of songs and sketches. Al Plunkett is credited with two of his greatest song hits, "That's My Mamma" and "You Can Feel It Doing You Good." "Red" Newman scores heavily in the sketches as well as in his vegetarian song. Fred Emney is apparently out to break all versatility records. He sings, dances, plays pianoforte and cavorts through a half dozen shifts and comedy interludes, with hardly a pause except to change costumes.

Harry Binnis and Jessie Butt have two or three charming duets and Cameron Geddes is accorded the solo hit of the performance for an old ditty melody. Allen Parker is the premiere danseuse and she contributes several delightful dance creations as well as sharing honors with Morley Plunkett in a Spanish number and an old-fashioned waltz. With all the novelties and surprises in "Why Worry," it still remains for Capt. Plunkett and his male singers to provide the solid success of the entertainment. This is the musical act which opens the second act. Here the Plunkett trio, the Dumbells' quartette, Howard Fogg and his violin, the piano duets of Fred Emney and Louise Crever and the solos of Harry Binnis and Cameron Geddes, combine to make the most enjoyable half hour that any lover of real music could ever desire.

"Why Worry" will be the attraction at the Royal Victoria Theatre for three days, commencing Monday, February 4.

LANGFORD SHIPS EGGS TO JAPAN

Yokohama Poultry Man Raising Stock From British Columbia Strain

Langford, Feb. 1.—The supplying of white Leghorn stock for Japan promises to become a lucrative business for Langford poultry farms. T. H. Hayward, who sent a big shipment of hatching eggs last year, has received another order this year to send 1,600 eggs to the farm of H. Mituhashi, Yokohama, who placed the order last year.

This is believed to be the commencement of a lucrative trade between Canada and Japan, the latter country being highly enthusiastic and appreciative of the satisfactory results in winter egg production there.

The eggs are from some of the highest producing white Leghorn stock from one of the most noted strains in the Province, with official records of 255, and in many instances, from 275 up to 300 eggs per year.

They will be packed in specially reinforced boxes, while the eggs are well packed in bran with the small end of the egg downwards, this way being found advisable for best hatching results.

They will be shipped on the Empress of Russia, and the temperature of their particular section of the Empress will be around seventy degrees. Although such eggs can stand considerable chilling, a temperature over seventy would result in the embryo development taking place and the germ being killed.

This shipment is strictly under the supervision of the Canadian Pacific Express.

This business is rapidly extending, particularly to China, Japan and England, these countries placing orders for approximately $20,000 worth of hatching eggs this year.

Langford, Feb. 1.—The fourth and last of the glove-making lessons was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Cooney. Mrs. Bond, the instructor from the Okanagan, was thanked by the ladies for her aid. Afternoon tea was served, and thanks expressed to Mrs. Cooney for her hospitality.

School was resumed again yesterday after two days of holiday, owing to the weather and road conditions.

The Tennis Club social evening of cards and music, also the presentation of trophy cups won, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the secretary, George Cooney, Goldstream Road.

Under the auspices of Metchoan Farmers' Institute a meeting will be held on Monday, February 4, at 8 p.m. in the Women's Institute Hall on Dunford Road. Professor E. M. Straight of the Dominion Experimental Station will speak on the growing of bulbs, and an address will also be given on "The Credit Side of a Garden." Everyone interested in these subjects is invited to be present.

Mrs. L. R. Turner and her daughter, Joan, who have been visiting friends in Vancouver, have returned to their home on the Goldstream Road.

Service on Sunday, February 3, will be held at 7 p.m. in St. Matthew's Church.

FOR NEURALGIA

ASPIRIN

You doubtless depend on Aspirin to make short work of headaches, but remember that it's just as dependable an antidote for many other pains! Neuralgia? Many have found real relief in an Aspirin tablet. Or for toothache; an effective way to relieve it, and the one thing doctors are willing you should give a child—of any age. Whether to break up a cold, or relieve the serious pain from neuritis or deep-seated rheumatism, there's nothing quite like Aspirin. Just make certain it's genuine; it must have Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin;
it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer Manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

FEW MAKE, BIG CHOICE

REPORT ON B.C. AUDIT IS READY; HOUSE TO GET IT

An interim report of the special auditors now investigating all phases of provincial finance has been filed with the Government, Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, announced in the Legislature yesterday in reply to a question from T. D. Pattullo, Opposition leader.

Mr. Pattullo asked when this document would be given to the House and Attorney-General Pooley, Government floor leader, replied: "As soon as the members of the Government have had time to peruse it, it will be filed. And may I compliment the leader of the Opposition on the very fast notice he got of the filing of the report with the Government, as it only reached the Government last night."

Sooke

Miss Irene Helgesen has returned to the Jubilee Hospital, having spent her holidays with her parents.

Harold Pontious is visiting in Seattle.

Mrs. Norton, from Dear Harbor, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. Norton.

This evening the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Wilson.

There will be basketball and dance at Charters' Hall on Saturday night.

Mrs. and Miss McBride had a very enjoyable party and dance at their home on Tuesday evening. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Baker, Miss Throp, Miss Helgesen, Miss Grey, Miss Butler, Miss McIntosh, Miss Violet Helgesen, Messrs. Roy Baker, Cliff Charters, John Randall, Guy Willett, George McIntosh.

A whist drive followed by dancing was held at the Legion club room last week. The ladies' prize went to Mrs. Trietram Willett. The gentlemen's prize was a tie between B. Mowat and W. Dicks. Miss Violet Helgesen played for the dancers.

Professional Jealousy
An actor married a wealthy woman and had retired. One day he and his wife were walking down the avenue when they passed two actors who had known the husband.

HORSE RACING

Tia Juana, Feb. 1.—The clever riding of the Manitoba jockey, Roy Leishman, stood out prominently yesterday. His effort on the queer-monickered Kiechler Macher was a particularly brilliant one.

Kiechler Macher emerged from the ranks of nowhere into a $100-to-$2 shot and made her fourth start a winning one, after three months of hard trying.

It took all of Leishman's driving ability to land this winner a head in front of another longshot, Eagles' Home, who held off Foreman, the favorite, until the judges' wire was passed.

The sterling combination of Deep Thoughts and Jockey Woolf were too heavily taxed with weight to-day to defeat Bon Fille in the Juarez Claiming Purse affair. The latter, with Jockey Trimble aboard, had too much speed at the finish. Jockey Woolf just managed to salvage show money from the fast-closing Simony.

Results follow:

First race, three furlongs—1, Vaccitee, $34.20; 2, Lamp Black, $3.80; 3, Flywood, $6.00. Time 36 3-5.

NO MORE GAS IN STOMACH

Daily Use of Bismarck Magnesia Keeps Stomach Healthy and Free From Indigestion

Gas in the stomach and indigestion are due, in nearly every case, to the presence of harmful acid in the stomach, creating sourness, fermentation and the pain of delayed digestion. These dangerous and unpleasant conditions may be stopped instantly and further attacks prevented by the daily use, following meals, of Bismarck Magnesia, which neutralizes the dangerous acid the moment it forms in the stomach and thus permits easy, painless, natural digestion. Bismarck Magnesia is the surest and quickest stomach anti-acid in the world and is perfectly harmless to use. It is daily used by thousands of people all over the civilized world. The cost is trifling and it can be obtained either in powder or tablet form at any well-stocked drug store. Do not confuse with other forms of Magnesia. Insist on Bismarck. Try a package to-day, and say good-bye to stomach trouble.

REPORT MADE ON ECONOMICS OF AUSTRALIA

Mission Makes Recommendations; D. O. Malcolm Reaches City

Australia has been living off its sheep too long and has come to the position where its industrial and financial positions need adjusting to conform with its development and provide for its future.

Realizing this the Bruce Government last year requested an economic committee from Great Britain to visit the Commonwealth and make an investigation of the country's standing.

D. O. Malcolm, one of the members of this commission which only recently concluded its investigations, arrived in Victoria last night aboard the motor liner Aorangi. He was accompanied by Sir Arthur Duckham, the chairman of the commission, remained behind in Australia, while Sir Hugo Hirst and Sir Ernest Clarke returned home to England by way of the Panama Canal.

A summary of the body's findings recently issued, however, points out that in recent years Australia has spent too much money unprofitably in development schemes undertaken without sufficient regard to the probable financial and economic results, although the financial position of the country is considered sound in the sense that the revenues are ample to provide public services and repay interest and sinking fund charges on the public debt.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The commission recommended that immediate action be taken to put all railways on a uniform gauge. Certain navigation acts are classed as hindrances to trade and in need of remodeling. Migration should only receive encouragement to the extent of the country's power to absorb migrants, the commission points out.

A hint to the protective tariff where it is used to support inefficiently organized industries, uniformly in state and Federal income taxes, one of course of arbitration only after all other efforts to settle disputes have failed and reorganization of transportation facilities are among the other items recommended.

SPECIALISTS

Each one of the members of the commission was a specialist on certain industrial or financial matters.

Mr. Malcolm was chosen due to his close association with South African development. He is at present a director of the British South Africa Company.

As chairman of the Woodall-Duckham group of companies, Sir Arthur Duckham was well-posted to examine engineering methods in Australia.

Sir Ernest Clarke is a director of the London Underground Railways and was formerly permanent secretary to the treasury of Northern Ireland.

The founder and chairman of the British General Electric Company, Sir Hugo Hirst took charge of investigations along such lines.

EXTENT OF TOUR

The extent of the territory covered by the commission was large. They arrived at Fremantle last September, went across to Queensland, then southward to Tasmania, finishing at Sydney.

Tribute to the fine reception tendered the commission not only by the Australian Government, but by the various industrial and commercial heads with whom they came in contact was paid by Mr. Malcolm.

It is felt that one result of the commission has been to produce closer relationships between the producers and industrialists of Australia and manufacturers and consumers in the Old Country. The objective of encouraging inter-empire trade has been advanced and the intention is to give British trade organizations the benefit of their experience.

Sixty-five Chinese Pay Court Fines

Chief of Police John Fry and a squad of police last night raided premises at 549-551 Fisgard Street on the authority of a warrant to search a common gaming house. As a result the treasury was enriched by $520 this morning when fines of $5 each were imposed on sixty-five Chinese taken in the raid.

W. C. Moreby, K.C., appeared for the accused Chinese, who were charged with beting inmates of a common gaming house. He pleaded guilty on behalf of his clients and asked that the court impose the minimum fine, pointing out that about seventy-five per cent of the accused men would in any case be unable to pay the fine themselves, but that the fines would be paid otherwise.

Search Made For Missing London Girl

Muriel, Daughter of Mrs. R. W. Dunsmuir, Missing; Eleven Years Old

Her Father Died Short Time Ago at Singapore

London, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press Cable)—Mrs. Robert W. (Robin) Dunsmuir, whose husband died at Singapore a few weeks ago, is prostrated with grief owing to the mysterious disappearance of her eleven-year-old daughter, Muriel, along with a former servant of the Dunsmuir family, Rose O'Grady, a twenty-three-year-old Irish girl.

The late Hon. James Dunsmuir, father of Mrs. Dunsmuir's late husband, was a guest at the luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of British Columbia from 1906 until 1909. Lord Byng, head of Scotland Yard, as a friend of the family, is taking a personal interest in the case.

The O'Grady girl had spoken of going on the steamer and Muriel told her playmates she was going to Ireland with the older girl. Scotland Yard officials, however, are searching London for the girl, as well as making an investigation in Ireland.

NO LASHES FOR C. RUMP

Appeal Court Also Cuts Sentence on Kamloops Prisoner By a Year

In judgment handed down at a special sitting of the Court of Appeal here this morning the court upheld the conviction of Charlie Rump, convicted at the Kamloops Assizes on a charge of indecent assault on a girl under the age of fourteen years at East Bridge, near Kamloops, on September 29 last, but reduced the sentence imposed by the trial judge.

Rump, 26, was sentenced to two years and fifteen lashes. In the judgment given to-day the sentence was reduced to one year and the whipping eliminated.

The judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Martin. The finding of the court was that the appeal was one of mixed law and facts. Mr. Justice Martin said the appeal as to the conviction was dismissed on all grounds, but the appeal as to sentence was allowed with the variation stated.

A. D. MacIntyre appeared for the appellant, and W. H. Bullock-Webster for the Crown, in response to the appeal. After giving judgment the court adjourned sine die.

POOLEY CENSORSHIP BILL DRAWS FIERCE FIRE ON ALL SIDES

picture advertising in this Province is as crude and stupid that it is a wonder it has ever passed the scrutiny of a party noted, even in its greediest moments, for its suavity and finesse.

"Mr. Pooley, voting political calcey, started his cabinet career by being heretic. When he began first Liberal appointments to make room for Conservative friends, he became greedy.

"Now he has become rough.

"It is probable that the Conservative majority in the Legislature will pass this iniquitous bill to save Mr. Pooley's blithe and carefree face. It is unthinkable that intelligent Conservatives will allow it to remain long on the statute books.

"For the bill, designed with the painful obvious intent of securing censorship powers over the press of the Province, is an affront to the principles of freedom upon which the laws of British Columbia are based.

"Supposing a newspaper should be so vulgar and obnoxious as to print an article criticising the Conservative Government of British Columbia, this bill would give Mr. Pooley the power to step in, without reason or excuse, and suppress all the copies of that newspaper on the ground that it contained improper motion picture advertising.

A MUZZLED PRESS?

"Do the people of British Columbia want a muzzled, weak and timorous press in this province?

"If motion picture advertising were improper, obscene or suggestive, or if the Government had no means of dealing with such improper advertising, there might be some shadow of an excuse for this bill.

"But motion picture advertising is not improper, obscene or suggestive. Theatre managers are not stupid enough to ruin their profits by indulging in such advertising. Newspapers are not stupid enough to jeopardize their good standing in the community by printing it. And even if theatre managers and newspaper were foolish enough to print such advertising, Mr. Pooley has ample machinery under the Criminal Code to prevent it.

"There is no legitimate excuse for this bill. It is simply a muddle-headed effort to create machinery for stifling newspaper criticism.

"Mr. Pooley's attempt to be a strong, virile Mussolini is so palpable as to be ridiculous.

"Conservatives in their hearts must blush for him."

WANTED TO GO STRAIGHT; GETS THREE MONTHS

Albert Chartrand Came Here to Get Out of Trouble But Is Found Guilty of Theft

When an excuse that he was intoxicated failed to impress the court, Albert Chartrand was convicted on a charge of theft and sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Magistrate George Jay in City Police Court this morning.

Chartrand was charged with stealing several articles from room in the Westholme Hotel last Sunday.

In his defence this morning Chartrand called two witnesses to prove that he was drunk on the day in question. Edward Brian, with whom Chartrand claimed he was drinking all day Sunday, denied he had been with the accused on Sunday.

"At least if he was in my room Sunday, I must have been asleep," said witness.

"Did you miss anything from your room," asked C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor.

MISSING $15

"I missed $15, but I don't know where it went. I wouldn't accuse anybody of taking it," returned Brian.

P. J. Harrison, city prosecutor, said Chartrand had come into the hotel about 5 p.m. Sunday and asked for Dusty Miller. At that time he had not appeared intoxicated.

Passing judgment, the Magistrate pointed out to the accused that the stolen goods were found in his possession and that next morning he sold a watch which he had taken. This was the weakness in his story.

PREVIOUS RECORD

Mr. Harrison pointed out to the court that the accused had four previous convictions against him for theft and petty larceny.

"You seem to have made a habit of this sort of thing," remarked the Magistrate.

"It would seem so. But when I got out of Okalla last time I promised myself I would go straight and came to Victoria for peace and to keep out of trouble," said the accused.

"But you have had a chance to go straight now. You are receiving a very light sentence," concluded the magistrate.

OPPOSITION IS EXPRESSED TO SIGN BY-LAW

Chamber of Commerce Directors Support Retail Groups in Action

Opposition to the proposed city sign by-law which will prohibit certain overhanging unlighted signs in the downtown area was supported by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce in session to-day.

The board considered the report of the retail merchants' association of the chamber opposing the by-law.

SOME SIGNS BAD

J. L. Beckwith was of the opinion that a sweeping resolution against the by-law was not in order, as there were a number of signs in the city which were abominable.

James Parfitt, however, felt that the retail body, who offered a unanimous opinion, were the people affected by the by-law and they should be supported. J. O. Cameron supported Mr. Parfitt in this contention.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Taylor of Smithers are to-day registered at the Empress.

NEW ORCHESTRA AT EMPRESS HOTEL

A new note of orchestral symphony was struck at the Empress Hotel to-day.

William F. Tickle's orchestra, which has become famous in dispensing melody at the Crystal Garden, was to-day installed in the rotunda of the Empress Hotel and will in future minister to the musical needs of the hotel fraternity.

In announcing the new departure this morning, Manager Herbert J. Wilson expressed the opinion that Mr. Tickle and his orchestra would be a decided acquisition to the life of the hotelery.

The orchestra will be available for all functions at the hotel and will play for afternoon tea in the palm room.

INTER-MARRIAGE NEW DANGER OF CHINESE INFUX

Warning Sounded in Oriental Discussion of Legislature Committee

Survey Will Be Alarming, Farmers Warn Members

The opposition which labor formerly voiced against the inroads of the Oriental in British Columbia is now voiced by merchants and farmers with the warning man now letting up on his objections. It was stated by members of the agricultural committee of the B.C. Legislature discussing a resolution of the B.C. Farmers' Institutes to-day.

A resolution recommending that the Government prepare at the earliest possible moment a survey of Oriental activities in British Columbia similar to the survey of 1926, was endorsed on the motion of Dr. Winch, seconded by J. R. Mitchell. The survey proposed to cover every line of activity in which Orientals are engaged in the Province.

Presenting the case for the Advisory Board of Farmers' Institutes, C. E. Whitney-Griffiths said the survey was essential in making recommendations to the Federal House to check the inroads of Chinese and Japanese in this Province.

WILL SHOW INROADS

"It will be startling when you get the figures," Mr. Whitney-Griffiths assured the members. "The comparison with the 1926 survey will show what strides they have made."

A. M. Manson remarked that the birthrate of the Japanese was alarming. "The Chinese were not increasing at the same rates as there were not so many Chinese women here. He gave a warning for the future."

"Inter-marriages are inevitable eventually," he said. "These young Orientals are being educated here. They dress like us and live like us and cross-marriages are bound to come."

Mr. Manson added that it was a difficult problem. One tackled the job of driving the Oriental out of industries with a bluish enthusiasm only to find they settled on the land.

Col. Cy Peck thought it could be done by licensing. He was the author of driving them out of fishing by the reduction of licenses each year, he said.

BOOKS IN ENGLISH

R. Mackenzie of Cariboo remarked that as far as Chinese in business were concerned they should be subject to the same regulations as regards keeping accounts as white people. They should be forced to keep books in English. Mr. Manson recalled that legislation to this effect was hastily passed at the session of the last Legislature.

It was drafted in a hurry during the closing hours and would need revision. It was mainly a declaration of principle.

Mr. Whitney-Griffiths said that fifty-six per cent of the Oriental licenses held in British Columbia were in Vancouver. Ninety-one per cent of the green grocers, eighty-two per cent of the laundries and even one-third of the barbers were Orientals.

J. W. Berry, Delta, chairman of the committee, said the problem of the Japanese all the rights enjoyed by a white man in Canada."

Relaxing of labor's opposition to the Oriental was indicated, the members were told, by the fight in Vancouver for the admission of Japanese workers to labor unions.

Dr. Winch recalled proposals for the admission of Japanese into Canada in the same proportion as Canadians were admitted to Japan. British Columbia would be protected as it already had its quota under such a plan. He believed greater progress would be made by negotiations with Japan than by force.

SUPPORT FOR HIGHWAY TOLD

Appreciation of Chamber of Commerce to Legislature Members Expressed

Activity of the four Victoria city legislature members on behalf of the Ocean Highway was reported by Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day. He urged the continued active support of the chamber in the interest of the project.

Mr. Hayward pointed out that the people of Victoria felt it would be best to keep the road an "Ocean Highway" and not make it the spinal backbone of the island. The route suggested at present would be in the best interests of the city, even though a few reallocations were necessary in places. The proposed route via Cowichan Lake, however, would not be of benefit to the city, he said.

B. C. Nicholas expressed the appreciation of the Chamber for the active interest taken in the project by Mr. Hayward and the other city members.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGES

By DAVID LYALL

He quickened his stride perceptibly and was very soon inside the rose-embowered wicket of the cottage where his mother lived, the place which had to often been his refuge and strength in days when trouble, if not actually present, loomed in the offing of his life.

Granny was getting frazier, there was no doubt of it. Seventy-eight years, most of them strenuous, must take their toll.

Her fact looked queerly sharp and fine in the clear evening light. Her son was suddenly struck by the fact of her age, and that he could not in the ordinary course of nature expect to keep her much longer.

It was typically Scottish that no kiss or even a handshake passed between them. The big, burly, grey-coated figure whose entrance immediately dwarfed the room somehow, moved over to the open window where the old lady sat with her knitting on her lap and nodded pleasantly.

"All right, mother, I hope? I was expecting to find you in the garden this fine night."

"I've a touch of rheumatism in my left leg, Robert, so I'm here," she answered, beaming over her spectacles at him. "Hoo's at 't' ye?"

"All well, mother, bar me."

"What alle ye, lad? You're lookin' fine. I havena seen ye since Manchester. I expect you've been travellin' too much, that's a' that alle ye."

"Aye, maybe I've been travellin' too much, as you say. I can smoke, I suppose?"

"What for no? Your father never speired," she answered with a twinkle in her eye which seemed to suggest that his fine manners oppressed her.

He drew an arm chair from near the table, set it at a proper angle opposite to his mother, and sat down.

"I've had company part of the way across the Meads—that lad Raikes. Does he ever come here, mother?"

"He has been here, but not for a long time. I liked him, I never forgot anything of the frebrand about him. He's very keen on Mary, I expect ye ken that."

"What?"

Freeland gave a perceptible jump in his chair.

"Do you mean to say there's anything between them? I wouldn't like that, mother. Mary deserves something better."

"She'll get what she deserves. I don't doubt; there's two or three keepin' the Almighty in mind about that," answered the old lady with her queer, practical expression of the faith that was in her. She spoke of her religion as she did of every other part of her life, in direct and unmistakable terms which might be challenged but could never be misunderstood. "What are ye lookin' like that at me for, Rubbert? Preland? Mary hasn't been meetin' her lad here, if ye mean that."

"I don't want her to marry Raikes. I'd not agree to it. He's got no foundation, mother, he's nothing but a frebrand. Oh, yes, he has qualities and ability too, and I like him, but not as a husband for Mary."

There spoke the decided and far-seeing father jealous for the happiness and well-being of his best loved child. Granny knew perfectly well that Mary was her father's favorite, as she was hers.

"Mary's twenty-six. It's not very likely she'll be taking ye, Rubbert."

"But, mother, you don't honestly think there's anything, do you now?" His tone was so painfully eager that she relented.

"I do not. I ken that he thinks the world o' her, because sitting here at the open windy wi' the wee birds fleen' up and down, I hear a lot and keep a calm sough through a'."

Freeland, evidently relieved, sat back and resumed his smoke.

"Twenty-six is Mary? How the years flee by, don't they, mother? It seems so time hardly since she was a wee thing, peeping through the door as I came in from the mill. As there are such a lot of wee birds fleen' about here, no doubt you have heard about the other one that's been after Mary?"

"I haven't. What one was that?" asked the old lady, in the intensity of her interest dropping several stitches and finally her whole stocking on her lap.

Deep personal interest in a love story is the hallmark of the true woman. Granny at seventy-eight had not forgotten the sweetness of her own early romance on Cathkin Braes. Of late, it had seemed to come back very near to her, perhaps preaging the day when she should meet again him who had been her lover and husband through a long, toilsome, but not unhappy life.

"Canon Severn from Little Heath. An English minister—oh, I hope she's no takin' him, Rubbert."

"She isn't. He's too old for her, but her mother is disappointed. He did the job very properly; came and apined her mother's leave first."

"Is that the way they do it in England?" inquired Granny jealously. "Does the father get count?"

"Oh, yes, I dare say if I'd been on the spot he'd not have passed me by, but it was the day I was at Manchester. I came back next day to find Harriet full of it. He's not only a dignitary in the kirk, it seems, but very well off and well connected. Harriet had it pat. But Mary was quite determined and refused even to discuss it."

"Deary me, I hope she'll tell me about it, Rubbert. I'm sorry for the man, but I'm glad he asks her. I wish wondrously that monkey, Bee, was gettin' a' the lads. Whaur are their een, says I? Twenty-six Mary is! Me—was the mither o' three by that time."

Freeland smiled at that, and relaxing in his chair, wore the air of a man who finds the atmosphere good. Here was he completely himself; there was no need to pose, or protest, or explain, as he had so often to do at home. He was, in very truth, again a bairn at his mother's knee. The wee house on the brim of the Foider was once more sanctuary to the soul and heart of Robert Freeland.

"Mother, I've come to tell you something big. I've resolved the place."

"What place?"

"The new place, Gorham Lacey."

"Eh, mither. Does that mean you'll not go to live at it, Rubbert?"

"It means just that. I've never had a happy day since I concluded the bargain. Something inside warned me not to go and live there, and I'm not going. That's what took me to Manchester. Oh, yes—there was some small business at the Exchange, but that was the main object of my journey."

"Mercy me, and whit is Harriet sayin' titt'?"

"Haven't told her yet. I'm going to tell her the night. That's why I'm here."

"She'll not be pleased, Rubbert. I guess ye ken that?"

"She'll not be pleased. I've made a thousand pounds off the deal, and I'll give it to her as a solatium for wounded feelings, as the courts say. I couldn't go there and live and swank as landed gentry. That was the difference between her and her daughter-in-law, who never denied herself the luxury of speech, however inopportune the moment."

Suddenly she leaned forward and gave her son's knee a little pat. "You're dune richt, Rubbert. The Lord has guided ye. Eh, laddie, but I'm glad, hoo glad, you'll never ken in this world."

"You never liked it, mother; nor did I at the back of my mind. Besides, it would be an impolite move to this crisis in the country. I've tried to put it like that to Harriet, and it's the line I'll have to take to-night. I got a fresh driven nail into the Gorham Lacey coffin the night from Raikes. It seems they're discussing the affair at the Bachelors."

"That's neither here nor there," said the old lady, with lips firmly compressed. "I wouldn't like ye to gie in to that crew."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Red Ink

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

"Hurry! You're home, Slinky!" said Mrs. Weasel as she heard her husband coming in the front door of their burrow. "I have the pot all ready for the rabbit pie!" she went on with a hungry laugh.

"Don't trouble yourself!" snarled Mr. Slinky Weasel as he sank into an easy chair. "There'll be no rabbit potpie to-night!"

"Didn't you catch Uncle Wiggily?" asked Mrs. Weasel in surprise.

"Can't you see that I didn't?" asked Mr. Weasel in his turn. "Do you think I am a stage magician that I can bring a rabbit out of my sleeve, or out of my pockets?" he went on, turning them inside out, after another. And all that came out was snow.

"What happened?" asked Mrs. Weasel. "I thought surely you would catch Uncle Wiggily!"

"I tried to," replied her husband. "I hid in the snow and he did not see me until he was very close, for I am as white as the flakes, as you know. But the black tip of my tail gave me away."

Uncle Wiggily saw that. First he thought it was a bottle of ink the Lady House Teacher had dropped and then he remembered how his father had told him, years ago, that weasels always turn white in winter except the tips of their tails, which stay black. So when he jumped for that rabbit he jumped back into his burrow and slammed the door in his face.

"Very impolite of him!" complained Mrs. Weasel.

"Didn't it was," said her husband. "But I will fool him next time, see if I don't!"

"How?" asked Mrs. Weasel.

"Mink Druggist."

The Weasel went to the drug store.

"Why, in this way," spoke Mr. Weasel. "Since my black tail tip told Uncle Wiggily I was hiding in the snow to catch him, the only thing to do is to get rid of my black tail tip."

"You don't mean to cut it off, do you?" asked his wife.

"No, indeed! Nothing as silly as that. But I shall dip the end of my tail in white ink. Then it will be colored like the rest of my fur in winter, and like the snow on the ground. Without my black tail tip to give me away, Uncle Wiggily cannot see me and I will surely get him."

"I hope so," snarled Mrs. Weasel, who was very hungry. "When will you try this new trick?"

"To-morrow," answered her husband. "I'll get some white ink at the drug store and dip my tail in it."

So next day the Weasel went to the drug store and asked for a bottle of white ink. Now it happened that the drug store was kept by another animal somewhat like the weasel, only a larger, whose fur was always brown in winter. He was named Mr. Mink. And it also happened that Mr. Mink was old and could not see well. So, instead of giving Mr. Weasel a bottle of white ink, Mr. Mink handed out a bottle of red ink.

Now Mr. Weasel, though he had sharp eyes, had never been to school, so he could not read, and red ink words looked the same to him as white ink words. So he took the bottle of red ink thinking it was white ink, and went out to the snowy woods where he knew Uncle Wiggily would soon be hopping.

"I'll fool that rabbit this time," whispered Mr. Weasel. He took the cork out of the bottle of red ink and, as if he had not been so anxious to peer about and watch for the rabbit, he might, even then, have seen that the ink was the wrong color.

But, as it was, he never noticed, and, putting the open bottle of red ink down on the ground, the Weasel backed up to it and dipped in his black tail tip, coating it with a beautiful red.

"There, now!" chuckled the Bad Chap. "When that dries I'll lay down in the snow and when Uncle Wiggily comes along he'll never see me, for now I am not one tiny bit black. Then I'll jump up and get him. My wife and I will have rabbit potpie to-night!"

The sun soon dried the red ink on the tail and the Weasel stretched out in the snow. Pretty soon along came Uncle Wiggily with Baby Bunny.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried the little orphan rabbit child. "What is that pretty red flower on the snow?" and she pointed to the red tip of the

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Trouble Tots seemed very strong. They pulled the basket right along and all the Tines quite enjoyed the ride. It was a treat. "The ground's so rough," one Tiny said. "It's funny they can go ahead. I only wish that we were on a smooth and winding street."

"Oh, don't you worry," said a Tot. "If we get tired, as like as not we'll let you Tines pull a while, and we will ride in ease." And then he added, "Truth to tell, if we keep running on pell mell, I'm sure that we will grow fatigued. I feel it in my knees."

"Oh, my," signed Clowny. "I just knew that that is what we'd have to do. It seems that all the fun we have is ruined in the end." Then Scouty snapped, "You lazy boy! Why, I should think you would enjoy your turn at pulling all these Tots. A hand I'll gladly lend."

Then, in a half an hour or so one of the wee Tots shouted, "Whoa!" The Tots all stopped their pulling. "It is your turn now," cried one. Aid so the Tines, with a shout, climbed up the basket and jumped out. "Why, sure, we'll do the pulling now," said Copy. "I'll be fun."

On o'er the ground they gaily sailed, and not a single Tiny failed to do his share. Not far ahead they reached a long, long hill. "Oh, look!" cried Clowny. "Let's all ride. Right down the hill we'll roll and slide. If we are very careful I don't think we'll take a spill."

They soon found out that he was wrong. They hadn't traveled very long until the rolling basket hit a rock and bounced in air. Off flew the funny little wheels. The bunch fell out, head over heels. It happened all so suddenly, it gave them quite a scare.

(The Tinymites and Tots see a big bear in the next story).

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1929

Good and evil planetary influences contend to-day, according to astrology. The late afternoon is an especially unfavorable time, according to the reading of the stars.

The sway favors big business of every sort, and seems to promise enormous combinations of capital that will encircle the earth.

The seers foretell that 1929 will be a period in which science performs miracles, and wealth profits by amazing discoveries in many fields.

Under this rule of the stars it may be unfortunate to sign any legal document. It is well to defer leases or contracts.

Disappointment is indicated for many musicians and actors who have had contracts assuring long-time employment.

While there may be much that is temporarily discouraging the stars seem to promise amazing development in theatres and musical centres.

Reactionary planetary influences are seen by astrologers who prophesy the end of unpleasant plays that stress the ugly and present what is intended to shock the finer feelings.

France now comes under sinister influences that may cause anxiety in many parts of the world, the seers declare.

New problems in diplomacy must be solved by the United States if the stars are rightly read, for southern neighbors will cause complications.

Children born on this day probably will be alert of mind and quick to learn. These subjects of Aquarius usually have many fine opportunities to advance in any calling they choose, but they must cultivate constancy and overcome desire for change.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a happy outlook for the year. Employment and business are well directed, although there is a sign that warns against contracts and legal complications.

John Nichols, famous English printer, was born on this date, 1801.

Saturn and Mars, twice in opposition in the first quarter of the new year, may cause apprehensions for they are supposed to loose the powers of evil.

FITZSIMMONS BILL FOUGHT ON PRINCIPLE

Opposition Protests Measure to Validate Election of In- terior Member

That all the forces at the command of the Opposition will be used to prevent the passing of the bill to legalize the election of Capt. James Fitzsimmons, Kasko-Slocan, who held a contract with the Department of Public Works prior to his becoming a candidate for the Legislature, was indicated by A. M. Manson in the Legislature yesterday.

In moving the adjournment of the debate, he said that he wished to preface his further discussion of the measure by assuring the House that he and his party had every personal regard for Capt. Fitzsimmons as a citizen and wished it understood that the attitude that would be taken was only actuated by public and not private motives.

Attorney-General Pooley, in moving the second reading of the bill, explained that a considerable time prior to the election, Captain Fitzsimmons had entered into a contract with the Public Works Department for a subsidy under the Ferries Act for the operation of a ferry on Arrow Lake. Before accepting nomination as a Conservative candidate, he had assigned this contract to some other person and had successfully contested the seat. It was later found out that the Ferries Act did not permit, through some omission, for the assignment of a license, and, consequently, to remove any doubts that might exist then as to the right of the Captain to continue his occupation of his seat, the legislation was presented.

NOT BENEFITING

There was no suggestion, went on the Attorney-General, that the Captain was benefiting, in any manner, from the contract, which, apparently, he could not rid himself of, and the matter was technical at best. He cited many cases where similar legislation had been enacted in Great Britain, Canada and the other provinces.

As a number of the precedents cited had been under Conservative administrations, Ian A. Mackenzie, Liberal member of North Vancouver, called attention to the political complexion of the incident.

"All right," said Mr. Pooley, "there is the last one, and best. We always keep the best for the last. Prior to the election of 1910, the Liberal Opposition argued that the Parliament had outlived its legal authority, and that, therefore, all legislation passed after that particular date was ultra vires. In the subsequent campaign, the Liberals were successful, and when they came back to the Legislature in the session that followed, legislation was introduced legalizing themselves whole-sale. It is the finest instance of a party lifting itself by its own bootstraps on record, for if their first contention was true, then they were elected under an Elections Act that was illegal, but they were successful in the election, and that changed their viewpoint. And it was as a result of that bill passed in their first session that they continued in office for twelve years, and that is how my friends opposite got into this House."

OPPOSE MOVE TO ABOLISH BY-ELECTIONS

Opposition Fights Plan to End
Old Ministerial Safeguard
Public Must Have Right to Register Approval, Pat-tullo Says

Abolition of ministerial by-elections will be opposed by Liberal members of the Legislature, declared T. D. Pattullo, Opposition leader, in debating the amendments to the Constitution Act in the House on Thursday. While his party agreed to the amendment by which the annual payment to the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker would be legalized, he said, they would vote against the other provisions of the bill on the grounds that the necessity for Ministers being endorsed by their constituents was the only safeguard for "an outraged public opinion" against an incompetent administration.

A great deal of ground was covered, and considerable bitterness was engendered in the debate.

Attorney-General Pooley, the Opposition leader said, had not offered a single argument worthy of consideration in his presentation of the bill in favor of the abolition of by-elections. In fact, he argued, the reasons given were such as should make it obvious that the retention of the present law was essential. The Government House leader had cited the situation in Vancouver between 1924 and 1928 as an instance of the ineptitude of the present law by saying that the late Government had been afraid to open the seat, and so had deprived Vancouver of Cabinet representation. This meant, then, that under like circumstances any government could give representation without having to go to the elections if the measure became law. In other words, although an outraged public opinion might be against the government of the day, no opportunity would be given for an expression of opinion. It was a matter of party advantage, and such was the only argument that had been advanced by the Attorney-General. The argument of opinion, he said, was a matter of party advantage, and such was the only argument that had been advanced by the Attorney-General. The argument of opinion, he said, was a matter of party advantage, and such was the only argument that had been advanced by the Attorney-General.

CABINET CHANGES

The speaker then passed on to chaff the Government. He said that Dame Rumor had currently reported that the Conservative Party was seething with discontent and that the change in the Constitution Act, if Dame Rumor was to be credited, was that changes were imminent in the Cabinet.

R. D. Twigg, Victoria—You have been keeping bad company. You should not associate with Dame Rumor. It was said, went on the Leader of the Opposition, that there were in the party, especially for two or three portfolios, men far more capable than those who had been honored by inclusion in the ministry, and that this had caused a great deal of discontent. He had heard that, as a result of this, the "seething pot of discontent" might boil over at any moment, and to avoid this catastrophe the Minister of Finance was to be translated. He had even heard it suggested that the Attorney-General was to be translated to London, and the head of Agent-General Pauline was to fall with other Liberal heads into the waiting baskets which would be filled by decapitated civil servants after the session.

ROAD FOREMEN

Hon. R. W. Bruhn hotly denied what he claimed was a misinterpretation of his statement. What he had said, declared the President of the Council, was that he would suggest that road foremen who had been appointed for political reasons and not by reason of their efficiency be dismissed.

Mr. Pooley—How far can the honorable Leader of the Opposition be allowed to go, Mr. Speaker? Mr. Pattullo—There is an analogy and am within my rights. I am showing that by doing away with the need of by-elections such things can go on without effective measures of protest from the public. Outrageous public opinion will have no opportunity of protesting.

Hon. R. L. Maitland followed, making his first speech in the Legislature, which was greeted with rounds of applause by the ministerial benches.

The Leader of the Opposition had stressed the Vancouver situation, he pointed out. There was an argument that clearly demonstrated the need for a change. Vancouver, with half the population of the Province, had been denied the right of Cabinet representation owing to the political fear of the Government of the day. Had there been no need for an election, Vancouver would have had representation. If the Liberal Government had truly sought to interpret the public sentiment of the people, they would have resigned long ago, he said.

There was a far more serious situation that would be righted by the legislation that was before the House. It was the cost of by-elections and the greater cost to the country that had been demonstrated by the tactics of the Liberal Government. Not only had ministerial by-elections cost no less than $37,800 in the past dozen years, but the Liberal administration had spent uncounted thousands of dollars and made promises of wild extravagances in order to win seats. He recalled the Revelstoke by-election, where, he said, to give employment and win votes, even the tops of trees had been cut off on the theory that they might fall some time in a heavy snow and injure someone. Road work and public undertakings had been held out as bait. Again at Nelson by-election promises had included a normal school and public works that would not otherwise have been offered by the Liberals. At New Westminster a by-election had brought all manner of promises. Such extravagances to small constituencies were unfair to the taxpayers in other communities and should not be tolerated.

Tom Uphill, Fernie, agreed with the Government speaker, but said that he thought that a provision should be included making it possible for a member to resign a seat for the purpose of allowing a Cabinet minister to secure it.
